STANFORD AND PITTSBURGH CLASH!

Cold Wave Spreads Suffering Throughout Midwest

DEATH TOLL IN CHICAGO REACHES 19

Traffic in Central States Nearly at Standstill in Worst Storm on Record

HEAVY SNOW GENERAL

10 and 12-Foot Drifts Reported from Many Sections; Busses Marooned

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 2.—Sub zero temperatures today added to the suffering and death toll caused by the blizzard which Saturday buried the middle west under a blanket of snow, reported in many sections as the worst on record.

Temperatures as low as five and 10 below zero may be expected generally from the Rocky mountains east as far as the Alleghenies, the district weather bureau here said. No relief can be expected for at least 24 hours, the bureau said.

So far 19 deaths in or near Chicago have been attributed to the cold wave.

Traffic throughout the central portions of the country practically was at a standstill. Gale-like winds drifted the snow and made roads impassable, forced suspension of railroad service or badly delayed it and caused abandonment of air mail schedules.

East Coast Suffers

Suffering as far east as the Atlantic seaboard, which felt the fury of the blizzard yesterday, was reported to be intense. Zero and near zero temperatures were general, marring holiday activities. Hundreds of persons sought shelter from the frigid weather in police stations and churches.

While the heavy snowfall was general from the Rock mountains east to Pennsylvania, Missouri, Iowa, Illinois and Indiana were reported to have suffered the worst. Drifts in many sections were reported 10 and 12 feet deep.

The cold weather reached to the gulf today. Louisiana, Arkansas, Tennessee, Georgia, Alabama and even Florida shivered in near zero temperatures.

Several Train Wrecks

Several train wrecks were caused by the blinding snow. In Chicago, Saturday, a crack Chicago and Alton train from Kansas City, speeding inside the city limits to make up lost time, crashed into the rear end of a St. Louis mail and passenger train. Two women were killed and 40 persons injured.

A South Bend interurban train, carrying New Year's eve celebrants, plunged into the rear end of another interurban which had been stalled by frozen brakes. One person was killed and more than a score injured. Many others were bruised and cut.

At Chicago, Ill., Mayor A. J. [illegible] led a rescue party to the relief of 150 passengers of Chicago-St. Louis busses marooned for several hours by huge snowdrifts.

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—near zero temperatures coupled with a driving wind, gripped New York today, causing considerable suffering. There was little likelihood of relief today, the weather bureau reported, predicting a maximum temperature of 20 degrees.

Uncover New Evidence In Sack Murder

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—Circumstantial evidence was entangling Dr. Charles McMillan, held on a suspicion of murder in the "sack" death of Mrs. Amelia Appleby, widow of a millionaire Chicago inventor, the sheriff's office believed today.

In a raid on the doctor's apartment, a newspaper printed the day Mrs. Appleby's body was found, but still was unidentified, had been clipped of an article telling of the roadside discovery of the body lashed in a gunny sack, deputy sheriffs said.

Throughout earlier grilling, Dr. McMillan had declared he believed Mrs. Appleby had gone to San Diego and had not known of her death. He still declares he is innocent.

A quantity of jewelry was found in the apartment. It included pearl necklaces, diamond rings and jeweled bracelets. There was also found woman's underclothing, a hypodermic needle and narcotics, the raiders declared.

Jessie Henderson Says No Reason Why One Should Live in Gotham

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—If there is one New Year's resolution for which the world cries out—and there are lots of them—it is that nobody shall be born on Manhattan island in 1928 and that nobody else shall move hither.

But like most New Year's resolutions, this one is doubtless too idealistic to work although the census bureau having settled the crop, sheep crop and so on for the coming year, has turned the full concentrated fury of its adding machines on Gotham.

New York, by grace of high wages and statistics, it had the misfortune to be the biggest city on the globe. But worse is yet in store. The census bureau threatens this town with such an influx of new residents in the first half of 1928 as will bring the population of the city proper to something over 6,000,000—which is something over five million too many.

August is the month selected by the statisticians as the fatal season when New York will be swollen to these violent proportions and if you can visualize six million people milling around New York, while the August pavements melt beneath the dog day sun, you will understand how cosy and comfortable Manhattan is going to be.

Agility Needed

Add to this the fact that it looks as though there might be perhaps 2,000,000 pedestrians all trying to get into the subway at once, while 4,000,000 motor cars converge to run them down—and you'll understand that to be a New Yorker next August will require an agility, a training and a quick eye compared with which Blondini's celebrated achievement of crossing Niagara Falls on a tight rope is mere kindergarten stuff.

It is but small comfort to learn via statistics that more people live in Brooklyn than in the borough of Manhattan itself. They live in Brooklyn chiefly because there isn't room for another folding bed or army cot on the island. Moreover, during the day and most of the night Brooklyn pours itself across the river to mill up and down Fifth avenue and Broadway. Those arteries of traffic are already so full of statistics that they are in the last statement on the apoplexy.

And what will the 6,000,000 crowd do in August when it has spent a quarter of a day fighting its way to the office and another quarter of the day fighting its way out again? Coney Island is about ready to hang out the standing room only sign for millionaires. They say there are green fields in Jersey, but next December's snows will cover them before you can get across the [illegible] or through the new tunnel. And as for Central Park you can't stroll around there without [illegible] or [illegible] forms that do not waken.

FIVE MARINES SLAIN BY NICARAGUANS

23 Are Hurt In Encounter With Bandits

Outside Aid in Training of Outlaws Seen in Precision of Attack

(By United Press)

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 2.—The military preciseness by which bandits attacked a group of U. S. marines—killing five and wounding 23—caused officers to wonder today whether the bandits had not had advantage of training from other than native forces.

After reports of the engagement at Quilali had been received by officers here, they studied to see if the well regulated and systematic way in which bandits fought the marines did not show outside aid in training. However, there were no definite evidences to prove the contention.

The five marines killed in the battle were:

First Sgt. John E. Hemphill, Chicago.

Corp. Adolph Theilhart, Middle Village, L. I., N. Y.

First Class Private George E. Goldsmith, Deer Park, Wis.

First Class Private W. Grady, Watson Point, La.

First Class Private Esthier Gresson, Pleasant Plains, O.

Six marines were injured seriously. They included:

Capt. Richard Livingston, Philadelphia.

Gunnery Sgt. Fred Coryell, Anaconda, Mont.

Private Robert M. Collins, Cobbtown, Ga.

Among the 17 others injured were two officers. They were:

Lt. William T. Minnick, medical corps, U. S. N., South Hills, Pittsburgh.

First Lt. Moses J. Gould, Paterson, N. J.

Rebels Well Equipped

The rebel forces were said to have been well equipped and well armed. It was this fact that led officers to suspect that outside aid had backed anti-government forces.

In reports to American headquarters, reinforcements were asked. Combat patrols from Telpaneca and Octal were dispatched to the aid of the forces at Quilali.

A patrol of marines and National Guard of Nicaragua attempted to march on Quilali, one of the strongholds of General Sandino, rebel leader in Nicaragua, Friday.

As they approached the town, the joint patrol of marines and National Guardsmen encountered a strong rebel force of between 400 and 500 bandits.

For one hour and 20 minutes the forces battled. Then the rebels were driven into the mountains.

Find No Rebel Dead

When the Americans entered the town they found none of the rebel dead although marine officers were positive there had been numerous casualties. They concluded the rebels had takn their injured and dead with them.

Until the battle of Quilali, only seven marines had been killed and at no time had more than two been killed in one engagement.

On Feb., 17, 1927, the marines left the United States and arrived in Nicaragua during the first week in March. They were sent here to suppress political disorders growing out of the election of President Diaz.

MRS. LINDBERGH TO COMPLETE AIR TRIP

EDWARDSBURG, Mich., Jan. 2.—Refusing to be shaken in her determination to complete the trip by air, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh today prepared to motor to Sturgis, Mich., from where she will resume her flight to Detroit.

The Ford-Stout monoplane, in which she was returning from Mexico City, was forced down here yesterday when it became lost in a snowstorm. The plane landed safely on the farm of Walter Curtis. Mrs. Lindbergh was taken to the nearby farm of L. N. Allen, where she had New Year's dinner and spent the night.

No Trace Of Missing L. A. Child

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—No trace of Florence Ellison, 14-year-old high school girl, who disappeared while on the way from her mother's home to that of her father, had been found by police today despite a vigilant search.

The girl, who lived with her father, Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ellison, had been visiting the home of her mother, Mrs. Cora Steiner, in another part of the city.

The search centered about a mysterious woman said to have befriended Florence on a street car.

ANTI-CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IS GOTHAM ISSUE

New York Legislature to Get Bill Abolishing Hanging, Report

By HARVEY ANDERSON
Special Correspondent

NEW YORK, Jan. 1.—The approach of the date set for the execution of Ruth Brown Snyder, convicted with Henry Judd Gray of the murder of her husband, has brought the anti-capital punishment question to the front as an inescapable issue in the next session of the New York legislature.

While persistent rumors that Governor Smith would reprieve Ruth Snyder lack official confirmation, as do rumors that he will recommend the abolition of the death penalty in his forthcoming annual address, it is unquestionably true that the imminent execution of a woman is centering new and widespread interest on this issue.

A month ago a New York newspaper began printing a daily questionaire asking for votes on the question of Ruth Snyder's execution. At first the votes were nine to one in favor of execution. Then opinion shifted steadily and the votes received now are two to one for clemency. The total vote is now 9,687 for execution and 10,574 for the exercise of executive clemency. In this tabulation there are 4,960 men voting for electrocution and 4,967 for clemency. Of the women, 4,277 are for electrocution and 5,877 for clemency.

Crime Brutal

The crime of Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray was brutal. It revealed no extenuating circumstances and no loop-hole for any plea of insanity or irresponsibility. Unquestionably the movement for clemency which has enlisted two New York newspapers has arisen entirely from the fact that a woman is to be executed.

So far as observable in other instances the drift of public opinion, not only in New York, but throughout the east has been against all

BELIEF HICKMAN WILL ENTER INSANITY PLEA STRENGTHENED

Joe Ryan, ex-Deputy Prosecutor, May Join Defense Staff

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—Further indications that Edward Hickman will plead not guilty by reason of insanity to the murder of Marion Parker, when he enters court tomorrow, were in evidence here today.

With the appearance in the case of Joseph Ryan, until recently a member of the district attorney's staff, and three unidentified visitors to Hickman's cell, it was generally believed the boy slayer would repudiate his promise to plead guilty.

Conference in Cell

Ryan, with Jerome Walsh, Kansas City attorney, held a conference in Hickman's cell late yesterday, that lasted for hours. Three strangers were present at the meeting, but Attorney Walsh denied that they were alienists, declaring that they were "private investigators."

Ryan, who resigned some weeks ago from the district attorney's staff, after directing a stinging barrage of criticism at his superiors, dismissed questions with a

Master Meets Pupil When Warner Eleven Lines Up Against Sutherland Men

WEATHER FAVORS RED

Panthers' Backers Offer Odds of 10 to 7; Both Coaches Expect Victory

By DAN CAMPBELL
(Consolidated Press Correspondent)

PASADENA, Jan. 2.—The old master and the pupil met here today in the annual New Year's day classic for the mythical east-west football championship, between the undefeated University of Pittsburgh gridders and a smart Stanford eleven.

The crafty "Pop" Warner was to renew an old feud with Jock Sutherland, the Pittsburgh mentor, who once took his lessons from the Stanford coach, before the largest assemblage of fans that has ever thronged the Rose bowl. More than 70,000 are expected to witness the game.

Pupil Beats Master

Sutherland, a son of Pitt, coached the University of Lafayette to three victories over his Alma Mater, during Warner's regime at Pittsburgh, and lost two, leaving him with a one-game advantage when they met here today in a game that is attracting more national interest than any previous east-west duel.

As in the majority of other conflicts between teams representing football on the eastern and western slope of the Rockies, the east was given the odds. Pittsburgh adherents offered 10 to 7.

Both teams were pronounced in perfect physical condition. The elevens went through their last workout Saturday and Sunday indulged in rest and skull practice.

Weather Favors Red

The weather prospect favored Stanford, accustomed to heat and sunshine. Backers of the Pittsburgh team had hoped for rain and cloudiness, but "fair and warm" was the forecaster's offer.

Coaches J. B. "Jock" Sutherland and Glenn Scobey "Pop" Warner, predicted victory for their teams.

Sutherland said that the Pittsburgh team was one of the strongest the school ever had and was capable of taking care of itself in any football company.

Warner was relying on the speed of his eleven to offset the admitted greater power of the visitors.

While neither team can lay claim to a perfect season, both have a record of impressive victories. This is especially true of Pittsburgh whose only black mark is a tie with Washington and Jefferson. Pitt defeated West Virginia, Drake, Nebraska and Penn State by heavy scores and for the season piled up a total of 279 points to their opponents' 20.

Stanford suffered two defeats, one early and one late in the season, but played an extremely hard schedule and the defeats were non-conference games. They played a 13-13 tie with Southern California and with the Trojans and Idaho hold a triple-tie for first place in the Pacific Coast conference. They amassed 144 markers to 69 for their opponents during the season just closed.

First Baby Of New Year Is a Daughter

Santa Ana's first New Year's baby is believed to be the young daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. A. Russelaers, 1331 West Fifth street.

The baby, who has been named Marjorie Helen, was born at the Santa Ana Valley hospital at 1:40 a. m. today, and missed being a New Year baby by just an hour and 40 minutes.

There were no births at the hospital yesterday and so far as is known at this time, Marjorie Helen has the best claim of being the first child born in Santa Ana in 1928.

You could get married, buried or permanently waved in the time it takes to go from the Pennsylvania to the Grand Central station by taxi even after you find a vacant taxi. Yet from the Pennsylvania to the Grand Central is a distance short enough for a child to toddle it in ten minutes.

Cafes Crowded

New York restaurants are so crowded at the noon hour that waiting lines stretch out for half a block in the busiest business sections. There's never a seat vacant on any bench in any park and even the flat tombstones in Trinity church yard are occupied by weary shoppers or box lunch devotees.

In short, there's no reason under the canopy why anyone should live in New York; and it's to be hoped that this frank statement of prevailing conditions will foil the statistics sleuths and keep the rest of the country from rushing in here to crowd us old residents who have been New Yorkers since—well, since a couple of months anyway.

Why, you ask (we hastily anticipate the query) don't a few of us disillusionized millions quit struggling for a toe hold on Manhattan and take the first train for somewhere else? There's only one answer. Somewhere else is all right; somewhere else is fine; but—somewhere else isn't New York.

4 BURGLARIES REPORTED HERE OVER WEEK-END

With 164 burglaries reported in Santa Ana during the year 1927, the new year took a flying start when four burglaries were reported on the first night of 1928, according to police.

Nothing was reported stolen from the home of H. H. Allen, 518 Bush street, when the home was entered sometime late Saturday afternoon or night, while members of the family were away from home.

The thief entered with a pass key through a side door. Several rooms were ransacked and the bedding of two beds was pulled off. Officer E. E. Perry made an investigation.

An attempt to break the combination on the safe in the Chamber of Commerce offices, at St. Ann's Inn, was made Saturday night by a thief who entered the building after jimmying a window. The lock was not damaged. A rolled top desk was jimmied, but nothing reported taken.

Thieves entered the study of the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the First Christian church, Saturday night and after ransacking the place, stole a portable typewriter, according to a report filed at the police station.

This same study was entered twice last year, and the same typewriter stolen. It was recovered later in a Los Angeles pawn shop.

Entrance was made into the study after a door to the church was jimmied and another door forced, the latter one leading to the minister's study.

A sewing machine, valued at $125, was reported stolen from the home of Joe Mores, 1825 West Second street, Saturday night. Members of the family were at San Juan Capistrano at the time of the burglary, it was reported.

Fairview Well In Mystery Class

Whether the Petroleum Securities company has found oil in its well at Fairview was as much a mystery today as it was yesterday, when rumor had it that a rich oil sand had been discovered.

According to reports among land owners in the vicinity of the drilling, the well has reached a dept of 4800 feet, and it is rumored that the sand is the same as good producing sands in the Huntington Beach district.

Workers at the well today were engaged in drilling operations, which was taken as an indication that the well had not been completed.

Introducing Mr. Hoffman, Stanford's star fullback and the keyman in most of the Warner system plays. Biff Hoffman has proved a tower of strength both on offense and defense in past games this season and he is expected to play a "whale of a game" in today's Rose bowl struggle with Pittsburgh.

as one of the strongest, if not the best in the east, was a slight favorite at game time, although familiar climatic conditions which favor Stanford tended to bring the betting to even money.

Both teams base their offense and defense on the old Warner principles. Sutherland's attack runs from the old Carlisle punt formation, while Stanford will depend on a bewildering assortment of speed, power and cersatility and an uncanny ability to make touchdowns when they are needed most.

Warner, the "bench strategist," will call upon a powerful and deceptive offense, with a maze of reverses and criss-crosses that tends to spread the opponent wide oper. "Biff" Hoffman, the veteran all-coast Stanford fullback, carries the ball most of the time behind interference that opens holes off tackle and around end.

Hyland Big Threat

Dick Hyland, flash backfield artist, is considered another threat. Hyland and his running mate, Don Hill, are two of the best defensive backs on the coast against the forward pass. They are expected to play havoc with the Panthers if the easterners elected to try the overhead route.

Captain "Gibby" Welch, a real All-American, is supported by an all-star cast. Welch is Pitt's greatest back since the days of Tom Davis. He calls signals, throws and receives forward passes and is rated the best ball carrier in the east.

The Pitt aggregation is pictured as a fast, alert, brainy team, with backs working behind an exceptionally fast charging line buttressed by capable wingmen in Douchess and Guarino. Douchess, who is only a sopromore, is one of the fastest ends in the east, his performance falling little short of sensational at times.

Both Great Plungers

Dick Booth, the stock 180-pound fullback, will battle with Hofman for plunging honors. Booth is one of the greatest line buckers in the east and also has quite a reputation for garnering the point after touchdown with his educated toe.

Andy Cutler, the Pitt center, and Hall McCreery, the Stanford pivot man, both play a roving game and are expected to clash frequently. Cutler outweighs McCreery by nine pounds, the Pitt man packing 180 pounds of brawn.

The probable lineups:

Prosecution Of Admitted Slayer Of Sailor Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—L. R. Desteiguer, commander-in-chief of the battle fleet, has recommended to the navy department that navy officials of Los Angeles act to prosecute Alexander Drummond, confessed slayer of a navy officer 11 years ago.

Desteiguer said he had received copies of Drummond's fingerprints and confession which revealed Drummond, alias R. MacMillen, killed a chief commissary steward named Ryan on board the battleship Michigan, at Philadelphia, in 1916, by hurling him overboard after a fight.

CAGLE PLEASED ROCKNE

Chris Cagle, star back of the Army 1927 team, was the most improved player of the year, in the opinion of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach. Wilson was credited with being the hero but Cagle was the whole works, Rockne said.

TAX REFUNDS DECISION MAY MEAN RE-TRIAL

That the action of the third district court of appeals in reversing the Orange county decision in the Birch oil company tax cases, which claimed attention here in 1916 and 1917 may mean a new hearing in the superior court was indicated today by District Attorney Z. B. West jr.

The case invilves property assessed at $600,000. West stated that he has not yet received a remittur from the higher tribunal and that, while its action in the affair in this respect is final, the oil company's holdings here probably will have to be re-assessed in the local courts.

The Birch Oil company controls a 20-acre field near Brea and claims that the local assessment was double what it should have been. In its brief, the company declared that County Assessor James Sleeper had "estimated" the value of the property at $2,000,000, whereas it was for sale at $500,000.

The case in question was the first to be filed by the Birch company and came when Sleeper had inaugurated a new assessment system to equalize and adjust assessments of oil concerns which previously had been regarded as too low.

brief statement in which he said he "had the matter of joining the defense under consideration."

Meanwhile police centered their investigation into new angles of Hickman's murderous career, around suicide notes left by A. R. Driskell, grandfather of Welby Hunt, youthful accomplice of "The Fox."

Suspect Foul Play

Authorities freely expressed their belief that foul play may have surrounded the finding of Driskell's body beneath the famous Colorado street bridge, in Pasadena, last May, although at the time Driskell was believed to have taken his own life.

Seven farewell notes, hastily scrawled on the backs of cards and scraps of paper, which were found in the aged man's pockets, have been turned over to handwriting experts and because of Hickman's record as a forger will be closely scrutinized.

Search for a woman in the case, which took on added impetus over the week-end, grew slack again today, when investigators failed to substantiate a report that a woman's voice had been heard in the "death room" at the Bellevue Arms apartment.

According to word received at the district attorney's office a young couple, since moved, had

TRAFFIC TICKETS WILL BE NUMBERED

The little red tags, so familiar to Santa Ana motorists who leave their machines too long in restricted districts, or who park where the curbing is painted red, are now being numbered by the police force, so that officers can keep a better check on persons who "forget" to appear in court after receiving them.

The numbered tags will be used, starting tomorrow, it was said, and the officer will keep a stub with the same number printed on it.

EASTERN TWINS RESEMBLE S. A. COLLEGE GIRLS

When twins look so much alike that they deceive the college professors and baffle their fellow students, that is funny.

But when another set of twins, of the same description, name and age present their credentials, then it is time to call in the fingerprint expert and prepare for systematic classification and labeling.

If ever the Misses Ruth and Naomi Bullpitt, twins at the Santa Ana junior college, meet their counterparts, the Misses Ruth and Naomi Hoegel, college students at Degonia Springs, Ind., in the shuffle, it might be difficult for a mother to know her own daughter, so much alike are the four girls, according to a letter that was sent by the Indiana girls to the Santa Ana junior college co-eds.

Pictures of the two Santa Ana girls, syndicated over the United States, appeared in the Evening Courier, the newspaper that circulates at Degonia, Ind. That was how the resemblance between the sets of twins became apparent.

Immediately, the eastern co-eds wrote to their western counterparts and explained the coincidence.

"We are sophomores at our town college, Evansville. We are also enrolled in the same classes and many times being mistaken for each other," they wrote.

The Misses Ruth and Naomi Bullpitt are sending photographs east to the other twins, who promised to exchange. In the letter, it was revealed that the Indiana girls so much resemble the two Santa Ana girls that the pictures of the Bullpitt twins have been mistaken for pictures of the Hoegel girls among their friends.

sentimentalism toward criminals. There has been general rejoicing over the apparent effectiveness of the Baumes laws and a demand for greater dispatch in trials and sentences. In spite of this, an anti-capital punishment bill will be introduced in the next session of the New York legislature.

For the last three years the National League to Abolish Capital Punishment has prepared bills, but has not introduced them, as it saw no chance of their passage. This year, the bill will be offered by Senator Walsh, of Staten Island.

Miss Sylvian Pierce, executive secretary of the League, explained that the organization had been led to prepare and introduce the bill on the strength of the opposition to capital punishment revealed by the Snyder case.

"It is not our practice to take up the case of any individuals," said Miss Pierce, "but we have been closely observing the public attitude toward the execution of Ruth Snyder and we believe it discloses a growing opposition to the death penalty. We are confident that our bill will receive strong support. The membership of the League has grown more rapidly during the last few months than at any time in its history. This also, we believe to be highly significant."

Renewed Drive

The renewed drive against the death penalty is being led by Warden Lewis E. Lawes of Sing Sing prison; Dr. George W. Kirchwey, former dean of Columbia Law School and former Warden of Sing Sing and Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, nationally known statistician.

Ruth Snyder's execution has been set for January 9. Governor Smith has named January 5 as the date for the clemency hearing in the cases of Mrs. Snyder and Gray. Officials of the State Department of Correction at Albany have received more requests to witness the execution than have ever been previously recorded. Most of the requests will have to be denied as the law provides that the execution shall be witnessed only by the warden, two doctors and twelve witnesses.

$8,000,000 IS SPENT YEARLY ON STATE RATS

It cost California $31,917.80 to provide a New Year's dinner for its rats. Despite this generous outlay, the rodents today consumed another meal for which the taxpayers dug down in their pockets for a similar sum. Not only that, but the pests will continue to devour the state's food at the same rate throughout the year.

These figures, released by Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, show that California expends $8,000,000 yearly for feeding rats. Each animal eats food valued at one-half cent a day, which rightfully belongs to one of the state's citizens. It therefore costs $1.82 per year to keep each rat alive. And there are just as many rats as there are people in the state, the statistics show.

"Rats are a distinct menace to health, for they are responsible for the transmission of many serious diseases. Their destruction is important for the protection of both life and property.

"Many cities employ workers who devote their full time to exterminating rats. Poisoning and trapping operations are most commonly used. The best permanent method of controlling them, however, is to cut off their food supply by building them out—making all buildings rat proof. This cannot be done in all cases to advantage and the killing method must be used.

"It is for the purpose of starving rats that health officers insist on the use of covered metal garbage cans," Dr. Sutherland said.

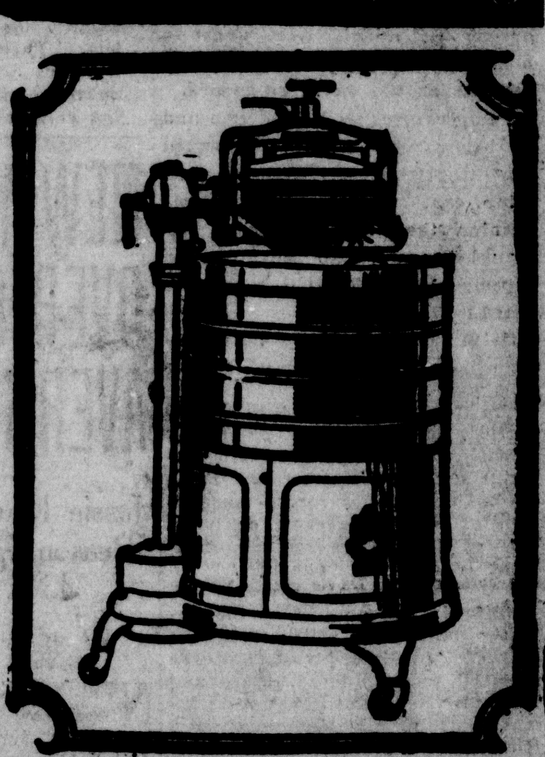
Speed Your Summer Washing

The 1900 WHIRLPOOL
is the world's fastest washer and we defy anyone to disprove it
The "1900" Washer Co.



Does the Family Washing In an Hour

The Whirlpool holds the world's washing speed record

THE "1900" Whirlpool has been constructed with speed as its ultimate aim. That means it has been made so that it will not only do your washing in less time but will do it with the least effort on your part and the greatest safety to your clothes and the washer itself.

It would be easy to attain speed alone, but the "1900" Whirlpool has a 28-year reputation for durability and mechanical perfection to uphold. It therefore built speed into this washer, not by sacrificing workmanship or long life, but by using the best materials available and the most modern engineering principles.

Thus it employs Timken and Babbit bearings, a direct drive, a case hardened worm, working parts ground to a fractional precision, never before found in washing machines. Likewise it is the only washer to use an 18-ounce tempered copper tub more costly but more durable.

See the Whirlpool wash and you will appreciate that speed in this machine means speed plus, speed plus long life, plus the least effort, free from handling and rehandling of clothes.

THREE DRIVERS ARRESTED HERE ON NEW YEAR'S

Three motorists were arrested here on New Year's day on charges of driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor. All are being held in the county jail on the felony charges and will be given hearings before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison tomorrow.

W. E. Whitley, 30, mail carrier of Glendale, was arrested on the Irvine boulevard yesterday by Constable Jesse Elliott and Deputy Sheriff J. O. Thornhill after the automobile he was driving turned over severely injuring him.

He was brought to the county jail and later removed to the Orange County hospital, suffering from a fractured arm and severe cuts and bruises about the face. A passenger riding with Whitley at the time, was not injured and was not held by officers.

According to Thornhill, Whitley was traveling north when he attempted to go around a truck. Another machine coming from the opposite direction, forced Whitley from the road where the machine overturned in the mud. The car, a new one, was badly damaged.

S. Muchida, 47, Japanese farmer, who resides on the Huntington Beach boulevard, was arrested yesterday afternoon on the Huntington Beach boulevard by George Stinson, state traffic officer, who turned him over to Officers Humison and Carter of the sheriff's office.

According to the officers, the Jap could not keep his machine from "weaving" from one side of the road to the other.

George Wells, 32, fur salesman, 315 Wright street, Santa Ana, was arrested on a "driving drunk" charge yesterday by James Cain, state traffic officer and is being held in the county jail.

Police News

Police were called to 202 East Sixteenth street yesterday on a report that a young girl had been grabbed by a man. They were unable to find any trace of the call when they arrived, it was reported.

Three men, charged with vagrancy, were arrested over the week end. All were lodged in the county jail. Officers Murray and Perry arrested Dave Hart, 34, and Frank Gibson, 31, when they were found loitering around railroad property, and Officers Wolford and Perry arrested Edward Harris, when they are alleged to have found him begging on the city streets.

Charged with being drunk, Sisto Garcia, 31, Santa Ana, was arrested Saturday night, by Officers Peterson and Dean. He was placed in the county jail.

G. W. Dawson, 27, 529 Orange avenue, was arrested Saturday night on a drunk charge.

Charged with possession of intoxicating liquor, H. H. Purviance, San Diego, was arrested here Saturday night. He made bail of $50 for his appearance in police court at 10 a. m., today. Only a small amount of liquor was found on his person, it was said. Officer J. W. Foster made the arrest.

Eight persons were given $2 fines in police court yesterday on charges of parking their cars overtime in restricted districts. They were L. J. Owens, Fred Towner, Mrs. M. Mead, F. F. Ham, H. P. Wilkinson, O. L. Montana, W. A. Crary and R. E. Beltz.

Charged with collecting junk without a city license, R. Baumstein, Long Beach, was fined $25 in Judge J. F. Talbott's court yesterday. He paid the fine.

Mrs. L. B. Kemp, Santa Ana, parked her machine too near a fire hydrant and was given a $2 fine in police court yesterday.

Charged with non-support of a minor child, Frank Costello, 28, Placentia, was arrested yesterday by Chief of Police Jesse Buckles there, and brought to the county jail.

J. B. Patterson, 40, Costa Mesa farmer, was placed in the county jail yesterday by F. G. Yoder, state traffic officer. He is being held for investigation following his arrest near his home.

Wanted here in conection with the alleged passing of a fictitious check for $14, Calvin Steart, 33, [illegible] South Van Ness street, was arrested yesterday by Officer Wolford of the Santa Ana police force and turned over to sheriff's officers. He is in the county jail today pending a hearing before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison, tomorrow.

CANTANDO CLUB ONE YEAR OLD ON JANUARY 3

On January 3, 1927, at the call of Leon Eckles, the following named men: Lyle Anderson, F. L. Gibbs, O. W. Householder, J. E. Lloyd, A. H. T. Taylor and Charles Wollaston, met to discuss the possibility of organizing a male chorus in Santa Ana.

On January 24, in the parish rooms of the Episcopal church, there were present 30 men, selected from the best voices in the city and action taken towards permanent organization. A. H. T. Taylor was chosen as temporary chairman and Frank Lansdown as secretary. Leon Eckles was elected as musical director, Ruth Armstrong, accompanist, and A. G. Tucker as president.

The Cantando Club of Santa Ana was the name adopted for the club and the purpose of the organization, as stated in its bylaws shall be to promote the interest of its members and the community in musical education and appreciation by means of the study and performance of works of musical character for male voices."

The club made its first public appearance on April 7, 1927, in the county Eisteddfod contest at Fullerton, singing the prescribed numbers in its division and winning first place. This was followed up by its taking first place in the finals at Los Angeles on May 20. The club was also heard during music week with the municipal band.

On May 24 it presented a full program at the high school auditorium, with Virginia Flohri as soloist. This program was complimentary to a capacity audience, which through its generous contributions and enthusiastic reception encouraged the club to arrange for a series of three concerts for the present season. The plan of associate membership, ranging from $5.00 to $10.00 for four tickets for each of three concerts (12 tickets in all), has been very successful and the club has thus been enabled to guarantee to its patrons a series of concerts which will provide musical entertainment of the highest order. The first concert of the season was sung on November 29, with Flora Myers Engel as feature soloist and elicited unanimous approval and scores of individual expressions of appreciation. The club is hard at work now on the second concert and is preparing a very fine program.

The active members deeply appreciate the wonderful support given by the 200 associate members, and is planning a social affair at the close of the present season, upon which occasion they hope to meet with their associates and unite for the advancement of music in Santa Ana.

MECHANIC ARRESTED ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

Charged with reckless driving, Fred J. Kyle, 32, mechanic, of 631 F street, San Diego, was released from the county jail soon after he was booked yesterday and given a ticket calling for his appearance before Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison next Friday.

Kyle was arrested one mile north of Gallivan by Officers Petty, Steward, Thornhill and Schumacher of the sheriff's forces.

The officers found a new .45 calibre army pistol on Kyle at the time of the arrest, they reported. The pistol was confiscated.

Arrested After Months' Search

Following a search for him that has existed for the past several months, James W. Adams, 40, Fullerton oil worker, was arrested here yesterday by Officers Steward and Jamison of the sheriff's forces, and lodged in the county jail on a charge of resisting an officer.

Adams is said to have resisted arrest made by Deputy Sheriff Sam Snodgrass, at a dance at Buena Park several months ago. He escaped at the time and was not seen by officers until yesterday.

ORANGE COUNTY P.-T. A. HELPS STATE KEEP FIRST PLACE IN NATIONAL MEMBERSHIP ROLL

By MRS. NEAL BEISEL
District Press Chairman

California has held first place for many years in national membership in the Congress of Parents and Teachers, the number in 1927 being 147,000. Much of this membership has been accomplished through a phenomenal growth in Southern California, and the fourth district (Orange county), with its 6000 members, is considered one of the strongest districts in the state.

Under the able leadership of the state president, Mrs. F. O. McColloch, the entire state was reorganized in order to handle the work more efficiently.

The officers for the year of 1927-28 include Mrs. J. V. Kelsey, Garden Grove, president; Mrs. Burt Vorce, Seal Beach, first vice president; Mrs. C. A. Marcy, Fullerton, second vice president, organization; Mrs. G. R. Greer, Anaheim, third vice president, extension; Mrs. R. W. Marvin, Anaheim, fourth vice president, public welfare; Mrs. F. T. Preble, Tustin, fifth vice president, home service; Mrs. William Griffith, Laguna Beach, sixth vice president, education; Mrs. J. L. Morris, La Habra, seventh vice president, health; Mrs. F. L. Benson, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Charles Schweinfest, recording secretary; Mrs. S. W. Douglass, financial secretary; Mrs. G. U. Straw, treasurer; Mrs. S. W. Stanley, auditor; Mrs. Harry Barnes, historian, and Mrs. Arthur Lindsey, parliamentarian.

An advisory board, strong in its affiliations, was added with Dr. V. G. Presson, county health department; Mrs. Albert Launer, president Orange County Federation of Woman's clubs; H. A. Lake, Orange County Fair association; R. E. Dye, Orange county Boy Scouts; Miss Margaret Livingston, county librarian; R. P. Mitchell, county superintendent of schools, and the superintendents of all the various city schools, as members, and actively assisting the district board in every project attempted.

Previous to the year 1927, Santa Ana had the only city council, with 12 associations and a membership of nearly 2500. During 1927, Orange and Anaheim each organized city councils with six associations in each. Under the leadership of Mrs. G. N. Greer, extension chairman, nine new associations have been added in the district, making a total of 61.

Working in close co-operation with the county board of health, with Dr. K. H. Sutherland as chairman of child hygiene, Dr. Bessica Raiche, chairman of social hygiene; Miss Helen Woodworth and Miss Linda Huggins, chairman of physical education, the fourth district is just finishing one of the most ambitious public health programs ever attempted in local parent-teacher circles.

From January to December, 1927, 214 child health centers have been in active operation with an attendance of 2762 children and 2200 parents. Cots have been provided for children requiring rest periods in school hours, and milk and hot lunches served to all as needed. Twenty-six thousand five hundred and ninety children have been weighed and measured; 4494 physical examinations have been made, and 1190 physical defects corrected; 15,593 treatments have been given in the schools; 2224 conferences held with parents, and 4192 school visits made. The health of the pre-school child has been carefully supervised with 969 home visits, and 1236 visits in regard to the child after entering school. All this tremendous volume of work has been accomplished through the trained workers in the county health department, acting as parent-teacher chairmen, and receiving every assistance possible from local members and chairmen in each school association, in making contacts and following up the work.

The fourth district heartily sponsors the work of the preventorium under Mrs. Amelia Meagher, and paid all the expenses of one child for the entire season that the camp was open last year. A student loan fund established as a permanent feature of district work, with Mrs. Simon Tousseau as chairman, kept a brilliant boy in Occidental college last year. Another student will be selected in January to receive this aid during the coming semester, as the student formerly aided is now able to finance himself.

Many educators of Orange county assisted the radio program of the American citizenship department by giving addresses over KHJ. Mrs. Florence Summers, chairman of the department, is arranging a new series to be given over KFON very shortly. This feature of the work was so well received that the state has now introduced a similar program in various cities.

Anaheim was chosen as one of three localities in which schools for parental education were conducted by the University of California. It was through the efforts of Mrs. G E. Holmes, president of the Anaheim city council of Parent-Teacher associations, that this was accomplished and 75 parent-teacher members received this valuable training, forming a nucleus for future classes within the local association. A second intensive course is to be given the second week in January by Dr. Rosamond Laws from the University of California.

The Automobile Club of Southern California, in co-operation with Mrs. C. C. Troy, chairman of public safety, has put on an intensive program of instruction in the Anaheim public schools. Students serve as traffic officers for the schools with official badges and when the course is completed each receives a certificate signed by the principal of the school and the officials of the auto club. Those in charge of this work regard it as one of the finest things accomplished locally.

Many citizens of the county are not aware that the juvenile detention home and the county free library are two institutions which owe their being directly to the Parent-Teacher association. A committee headed by Mrs. W. B. Tedford and Mrs. Earl Morris presented the matter to the supervisors over a period of several years, until the institutions were established. Mrs. Tedford is still chairman of juvenile protection in the district and a member of the county board which administers the juvenile home. Miss Margaret Livingstone, county librarian, serves on the advisory board of the fourth district. A third petition is now before the supervisors from the fourth district, asking that a maternal and infant welfare clinic be established in the county health department. This petition has received the indorsement of the Orange County Medical association.

The fourth district is very proud of its official publication, The Parent-Teacher News, which forms the means of communication between the officers of the district and the membership in general. It is financed entirely by advertisers over the county and is edited and managed by Mrs. Florence Summers, Mrs. Earl Morris, Mrs. Neal Beisel, Mrs. R. W. Marvin, Mrs. Fay Spangler, Mrs. J. V. Kelsey and Mrs. Arthur Lindsey.

The Parent-Teacher association holds a unique position in society, for while it strives to educate the parent, it seeks to better childhood in doing so. While it practices extensive philanthropy, the child as a future citizen is its reason for doing so while the organization itself is not for social purposes, yet many social features are introduced that happier homes for children may result from the contacts made.

In conducting this tremendous activity in Orange county the local district officers have received the support from the press which has been unequalled in cordiality and has made possible the ambitious program of the organization, placing the work done on the high level of recognition which it justly deserves.

HOLD INQUEST IN FULLERTON OVER 4 BODIES

An inquest was conducted at the Seale funeral parlors in Fullerton today into the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Arland, of Pomona, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Arland, of Aberdeen, Wn., who were killed when their automobile was struck by a train on West Commonwealth avenue, Fullerton, Friday. A verdict of accidental death was anticipated.

The bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Arland will be sent tonight to Aberdeen for burial. Services for Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Arland will be conducted in Pomona Saturday at the First Methodist church. The services were delayed pending the arrival of their parents and a daughter, Josephine, from New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Arland were visiting the Pomonans over the holidays and the party was returning from Long Beach when the accident occurred.

CANCELS PLANS FOR PURCHASE OF SITE

According to rumors that could not be confirmed today because of the absence from the city of parties interested, A. B. Rousselle has cancelled negotiations for the purchase of the R. G. Tuthill property on the northwest corner of Seventeenth and Broadway and the California Petroleum company has withdrawn its proposal to lease the corner for an oil station.

The general criticism of property owners on Broadway of the plan for including a portion of that street at the Seventeenth street intersection in the business zone, and protest against the location there of an oil station, is said to be responsible for actions by Rousselle and the oil company.

A hearing on the application of the oil company for a permit for a station is scheduled for a joint meeting of the city council and the planning commission tomorrow evening, in the city council chambers at the city hall.

December Sales At Post Office Set New Record

When it comes to measuring Christmas business, Uncle Sam uses the same measurement as that used by a merchant. Uncle Sam counts the coin.

With that measurement, Christmas this year was the largest in the history of the Santa Ana post office. The total postal sales were $25,420. December, 1926, had a total of $21,555.

The post office reported the year's business as $155,704.27, showing a substantial gain over the total for 1926 which was $147,148.45.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED IN 2 AUTO MISHAPS

Five persons were reported slightly injured in two automobile accidents in Santa Ana over the week end.

Mrs. G. A. Tart, 515½ North Main street, and daughter, Helen, were cut about the face, when the car driven by her husband collided with a machine driven by E. Lopera, Tustin, at Sixth and French streets at 9:45 a. m. yesterday.

Lopera complained of injuries to his right arm.

When automobiles driven by S. Kalaume, Route No. 1, Gardena, and David Jones, Los Angeles, collided at Third and Main streets at noon yesterday, Mrs. Kalaume and small baby were cut about the face by flying glass, according to a report filed at the police station.

Jones was driving a machine for the Argonne Storage company, of Los Angeles, at the time it was reported.

Thief Takes $20 From Ice Cream Company's Store

Police are searching for a man, dressed in golf knickers, who entered the Curry ice cream parlor, Buffalo and Main streets, early this morning and stole $20 in change from a sack secreted under the ice box.

The place was not open for business at the time of the robbery, it was said. Officers, who made an investigation, learned that a key was missing from the store.

Two dollars of the money taken was in nickels, it was said.

Several persons are alleged to have seen the thief enter with a key through the front door, officers said.

9000 BOOKED BY JERNIGAN IN FIVE YEARS

Although it is generally known that there are between 75 and 100 prisoners in the Orange county jail at all times, few persons in Orange county would believe that almost 9000 prisoners have come into the jail during Sheriff Sam Jernigan's term in office.

These figures are correct, however, being taken from the sheriff's jail book. In a number of cases, the prisoners have been the same on several different occasions but but each time they had to be handled as new prisoners.

In other words, enough persons have been booked in the jail during the past five years to make up a third or more of the population of Santa Ana.

Of the same 8440 prisoners taken care of in the past four years, 2217 were booked at the jail for past year. When the records for the year were closed there were 89 prisoners in jail.

The crimes of these prisoners range from speeding to murder, but regardless of the crime, they all come to the jail in the same manner and they all go out the same way. The treatment given is the same for all.

Although Sheriff Jernigan's working force is much smaller than the police force of Santa Ana and other cities in the county, the number of arrests does not show it.

During the five years Jernigan has been in office, the monthly arrests averaged 51.52, while the records show that 10,560 calls were made by sheriff's officers during this time.

The sheriff's office itself has been responsible for the arrest of 3180 of the prisoners booked at the jail during the past four years, the records show.

Jernigan and his deputies, have arrested 768 prisoners on felony charges since he took office, 134 on high misdemeanor charges and 1430 prisoners on lesser charges. This does not include the arrests made for violations of the Wright act.

During the past five years, 776 persons have been arrested for possession of liquor or some other form of violation of the Wright act. In 1927, there were 147 arrests for alleged violations of this kind.

The year 1926 was the largest year for arrests in liquor violations, when 201 persons were arrested. In 1925, there were 149; 1924, 129, and 1923, Jernigan's first year, 150.

Jernigan pointed out that from January to August, 1923, he had only one deputy, from August, 1923, to August, 1925, he had two deputies; from August, 1925, to August, 1927, he had three deputies and since last August he has had four deputies.

The figure 776, given as the number of arrests made in Wright act cases, does not include numerous other Wright act cases handled by city officers in a number of cities in Orange county, although the defendants were arrested by sheriff's officers. Many were handled in Anaheim, Fullerton, La Habra, Brea, Placentia, Newport Beach and Huntington Beach, the sheriff stated.

SEVEN INJURED AS TWO CARS COLLIDE

Seven persons were hurt when two cars collided at the intersection of Grand avenue and Orangethorpe road, near Buena Park, Saturday night. The most seriously injured was Bonnie Campbell, of Huntington Beach, who was reported to have a fractured skull.

The other injured were Kenneth Ward, of Midway City and Florence Theriot, of Los Angeles, who were riding with Campbell, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sparks, of Long Beach, and C. D. McCarver, and Juanita McCarver, of Fullerton, who were in the other machine.

None of the injured was expected to die.

Arrested On Drunk Charge

Charged with being drunk and beating his wife, G. H. Randel, 23, 209 South Flower street, was arrested early Saturday night and lodged in the county jail by Officers Wolford and Perry.

He made bail of $100 yesterday afternoon for his appearance before Judge J. F. Talbott on the charges tomorrow.

MILK CONTROL PROBLEM WITH HEALTH BUREAU

That the health officer of modern times must devote more time and thought to the question of milk control than he ever has done in the past, was declared today by Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, who stated that this subject creates one of the outstanding sanitary problems of 1928.

Dr. Sutherland praised the lceanliness with which dairy products are handled in Orange county in commenting on a report on this situation recently released by the Southern California Public Health association.

"This matter may be considered as of as great importance as the four other major public health problems, namely water control, sewage disposal, garbage disposal, and the control of communicable disease," he said, pointing out that when a community gives its health authorities the proper legal and financial support for milk control work, it is, indeed, taking out a cheap form of insurance.

Despite recent agitation favoring the pasteurization of raw milk, investigations of the situation in Southern California have resulted in the conclusion that this process is not necessary, according to the report referred to by the health officer.

However, the dairyman who produces this grade of milk must continue to do so under conditions similar to those in operation in the handling of certified milk, he pointed out. The essentials are cleannon-reacting tuberculin tested barns, clean mechancial bottling and capping and immediate cooling of the product, he explained.

"If we cannot have raw milk produced according to this standard, all of this type, except certified milk should be pasteurized," he said.

The advisability of pasteurizing certified milk depends on the degree of supervision, he declared, and asserted that the record of this grade of product is such that few people that pasteurization is necessary.

If the process is used as an excuse for filthy practices in production and transportation, it becomes an abomination, it was pointed out. Dr. Sutherland declared that the dairymen of this county are above reproach in this respect.

Properly pasteurized milk is a safe product and the proper operation of the process does not destroy the creaming ability of milk, he said.

Dr. V. G. Presson, former health officer here, who left Saturday for Tuscon, Arizona, was a member of the executive committee of hte Southern California Public Health association, started an investigation of the milk situation. The milk committee was appointed at the first meeting of the organization several months ago. Dr. Warren F. Fox, Pasadena health officer, is chairman of the committee.

The eight southern counties are included in the association, which is headed by Dr. J. L. Pomeroy, of Los Angeles.

"With the phenominal increase of population and tourist travel to Southern California, and the fact that we are the gateway to the far east, it is imperative that we organize the foremost professional men, the finest technicians and eminent scientists for the protection of public health," Dr. Pomeroy stated when the association came into being.

One of the first pieces of work undertaken by the organization was the investigation of the question as to whether all milk should be pasteurized.

Stockholders Of Anaheim Bank To Receive $24,000

ANAHEIM, Jan. 2.—Checks aggregating $24,000 are to be mailed out by the First National bank Tuesday to stockholders in settlement for the regular semi-annual dividend of 12 per cent, which was authorized at a meeting of the board of directors held in the bank last week, President H. H. Benjamin reported.

The report of President Benjamin on operations during the past year was an important feature of the meeting, revealing the period to have been one of the most successful in the history of the institution.

The annual stockholders meeting, at which directors and officers will be elected, is to be held January 10, it is announced.

GAS MASKS FOR MULES

McCAMEY, Tex., Jan. 2.—Fumes of hydrogen-sulphine gas pouring from the oil wells of the Crane-Upton field here have proven so dangerous that workmen and animals have been provided with gas masks. Mules submitted to the masks with better grace than did the men. Because the gas is almost odorless it is necessary to wear the protectors constantly.

151 UNFORTUNATE CHILDREN BROUGHT BACK TO HAPPINESS AND HEALTH BY RELIEF BODY

By HARRY D. RILEY

President of the Crippled Children's Relief Association

Our association, though operating on funds voluntarily subscribed, has been able to assist 151 little unfortunate children back to health and more happiness. Many new cases have come to our attention this past year, in addition to those carried over from previous years, as is necessary, owing to the peculiar and lasting effect of paralysis on some of our little patients. We have patients requiring treatment now at least twice a week who have been in our care for six years, showing some improvement all the time. We must care for them and fight to bring them to as near a cure as is humanly possible.

The officers and directors of the association have managed its affairs without any monetary reward whatsoever, but the satisfaction of doing a service worth while. I said the management served without any reward. I meant in a monetary form because I know that I have been more than repaid for all the service I will be able to perform by little expressions of appreciation for what we have done for those who are not in position to help themselves.

During the early life of our association, which was organized in May, 1921, we did not function like the well-oiled and well-organized machine we have now. We realize it is necessary to creep before we can walk, but we had our present organization in mind as a goal toward which to work. Now we have another goal, and that is to work until these poor little children will be able to enjoy specialized and vocational training in our schools, with seats built comfortably for the crippled, and programs arranged so that they may be fitted properly to handle life's problems—this movement to cover the whole of our most beautiful state of California.

State Aid

Much progress has been made along the lines of state aid, creating the legislative machinery with which to care for the crippled, the same as the blind, the insane, deaf mutes, etc. A state society has been formed whose job it is to see that this program is carried through to successful conclusion. Legislation has been passed in our state assembly and senate approving of a plan to treat and train crippled unfortunates, and provide them an opportunity to become independent, happy individuals, instead of a burden for society to carry during their entire existence.

Considerable progress has been made along this line in our own county through our association. The census of children which is being conducted by the school board, through the assistance of Parent-Teacher associations, will soon be completed and will give us complete information as to just who the children are in our county who are handicapped physically in attending school. Superintendent of our schools, M. A. Gauer, and County Superintendent Mitchell heartily endorse the work and are working on a program now to start a schedule of training for these children in their homes. This is something which has never been done before, and was brought about entirely by our association's interest and activity. A conference was held recently to discuss the work which is entirely new to the school authorities here, and to arrange a plan which will accomplish our desires and objective.

Under One Head

During recent years our association has had a superintendent handling our affairs, arranging for examinations, operations and after-care in the home, rendering the much needed physio-therapy treatments, prescribing diets, rest hours, and care recommended by the attending physician. This work is done after the case has been investigated thoroughly by our investigating committees, and authorized by the directors of the association. An account is opened with each case, and all expenses necessary to handle each case is charged to that account, and the progress recorded. All money spent is authorized by the directors and requisitions are issued in each case. After receipt of the goods, a voucher is made, signed by our president and secretary, authorizing the treasurer to issue a check and pay the account.

The thought uppermost in our minds at all times is the patient, and our attitude has been to do the things needed to properly care for our little charges regardless of expense. If proper equipment was not available here, the patient has been taken where it could be properly cared for. There has never been a case coming to our attention we could not satisfactorily treat.

We have treated during the life of our society 151 cases, of which 37 were new this year. However, several of the cases we are now treating have been under care since the formation of our association. One patient in particular, who had never attended a day of his life before, was one of our first patients, and he has been treated at an expense to us of around $2000. He is now going to school, being trained to make two grades in one year, and, after passing the fourth grade examination, we have arranged his vocational training in the shoemaking trade in a school near Gardena, so that he will be self-supporting, and not a load on society during his lifetime.

Our association is non-sectarian in its activities. It matters not the color or the creed of the child needing help. They all look alike in this respect.

GAVE FARRELL RAISE

Some critics believe the St. Louis Cardinals lost the pennant last year because the burden of management reduced the efficiency of Bob O'Farrell, star catcher. Making him the manager cost the owners more than that as they had to give him a salary kick of $500 a year to get him to give up the management.

1787 COUNTY INFANTS BORN IN PAST YEAR

One thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven possible presidents of the United States or first ladies of the land came to live in Orange county last year, according to records compiled today.

So far none of the new arrivals has announced his or her candidacy, for the group is said to be too young to stage a nominating convention. Furthermore, though a number of them show signs of being precocious, as a whole, the presidential timber is still too green to indicate which candidate would have the best chance in a race.

Some of the youthful figures, however, are loud in their demands for notice, giving rise to the contention on the part of their publicity agents and parents that they are destined to be senators. The usual number of early morning filibusters has been reported.

Many have come out flat footed when their attitude on the liquor question has been investigated, with the resultant indication that most of them are not aiding in the dry movement.

The preceding year furnished more prospects than the present one, according to statistics, for 1898 babies came into the limelight during 1926. The records for the past 12 months, however, have not been completed entirely, and it is expected that final figures will show the new crop of candidates to be very nearly as large as that of the previous season.

Santa Ana and vicinity is given as the residence of 840 budding executives, with 530 of them living in the city proper. Orange claims 226, Anaheim 218, Fullerton 353, Huntington Beach 106, Newport Beach 22, and Brea 44.

Court Notes

William Webster brought suit today against J. L. Beebe and H. Eva Beebe for 2000, alleging that they had failed to keep a contract agreement. He declared that he bought acreage from them with the intention of subdividing it and that they agreed to grade a road for the property. They have not done so, he stated, and asks that his first payment, of $2000 be returned.

Suit for $315 on a promissory note was filed today by the People's Finance and Thrist company against George H. Kern, George S. Kern, Caroline E. Kern and J. A. Rink.

Money alleged to be due on an open book account, from Paul W. Federer and Anna L. Federer to W. E. Shaw, is the basis of a suit brought today by the latter in the Superior court. The amount asked is $308.50.

Alice M. Pope, H. A. Pope and J. B. Pitcher are named as defendants in a suit for $2365.22 brought today by the First Commercial bank, of Orange, which alleges that this amount is due on their promissory note.

S. Tucker filed suit today against Charles E. Jones and H. F. Dierker for $1000, claiming that they have paid but one-half of the amount due on a promissory note for $2000.

Alleging that Blanche L. Dolph agreed to buy $5000 worth of stock in the Santa Ana Valley hospital and failed to keep her agreement, the hospital today started court action against her for the recovery of that amount.

BELIEVES NEW REVOLT WAVE IS DUE SOON

RIGA, Jan. 2. (by mail)—In the course of a long speech in the Communist congress Stalin made statements that are hardly compatible with Litvinoff's "peaceful" professions at Geneva. Stalin said: "We now expect a new wave of revolution not only in the colonies, but in Europe. The last congress recorded an ebb of the revolutionary tide. We can now definitely state that the tide has turned toward the revolutionary flood on which the U. S. S. R. is moving for the working class of Europe and the oppressed colonials.

"The most threatened country is England, where our help for the miners and our sympathy with the Chinese revolutionaries have poured oil on the fire of the anger of the British government and caused a breach or relations.'

Stalin said there could be no doubt that war with the imperialists was inevitable, but it was necessary "to postpone the clash until the Communist revolutionary situation had quite matured."

Of the League of Nations Stalin said: "We sincerely want both the revolution and peace, but the league babbles lies and, while futilely chattering about disarmament, encourages war. The league prevents the advent of peace; the league's conferences provide new sources of war. The league is not an instrument of disarmament, but of armament co-operating with the bribed bourgeois press, and therefore war is inevitable. The spirit of war is a fundamental element composing the spirit of Locarno."

Then Stalin turned to the subject of obtaining loans and credits, "not only from Germany, but also from America and even England." He explained that the questions connected with "debt and credits have been and still are the greatest stumbling block in our path to the world revolution, but our policy is quite clear. We say: Give us a loan, we give back part as part payment of the old debts and enter this on our books as an extra. The tranaction is therefore profitable to both parties."

Stalin regretted that the process of obtaining capitalists' money was slow, but expressed the conviction that the soviet would succeed. He concluded by saying that the chief task of the Communist party in regard to foreign policy was the strengthening of the military resources of the U. S. S. R.

A SQUARE DEAL (?)

When the residents of the southwest lighting district were informed that in spite of vigorous protests, ornamental lights were to be installed, they requested that they have a choice in the selection of the type of pole to be used.

But they were told by a city official that they had no choice in the matter—that the company which was to furnish the poles felt it had not had a square deal in Santa Ana, as other lighting companies had been given more contracts than they.

An editorial in the Register of the 30th said, "The people of Santa Ana as a whole and property owners in general are entitled to the protection that thec ity councilmen are in a position to give them."

Is the council protecting the property owners or the lighting companies?

There Small confessed to stealing the car he was driving in Riverside and implicated three other youths, police said.

ONSTRUCTION COSTS LOWER IN PAST YEAR

with the arrival of the New r, building conditions through- t the United States are epi- mized by S. W. Straus & com- y as follows:

(1) An approximate shrinkage of 00,000,000 from the 1926 volume d of $1,000,000,000 from 1925, the cific coast area showing less lative reduction than the east- n centers.

(2) Generally stabilized condi- ns with well balanced supply d demand.

(3) A tranquil labor situation th average employment in the ilding crafts about 12 per cent low the levels of one year ago.

(4) A decline in building ma- ial prices of from 7 per cent 10 per cent and an increase of ghtly less than one per cent in bor.

(5) Somewhat lower building ts as the result of greatly in- ased labor efficiency combined th smaller profits and a re- ced overhead by contractors.

(6) Outlook for activities in 1928 varying greatly from the vol- e attained during 1927.

"During the earlier months of 27," states the report, "there s a considerable volume of ilding still in operation which d been started near the close 1926. That the year was to tness a great shrinkage in new ilding was evidenced as early April 1, when the distinct wnward trend of building per- ts was definitely established. e developments of the year have own conclusively that the build- permit index is the most de- ndable barometer so far devel- d by students of construction ndencies. Although the indices actual construction in buildings icated at times during the year t the industry was in a state expansion, the truth as to fun- mentals and basic trend was ac- ately made manifest from nth to month by the reports of dy declines in building permits ned in the leading cities and vns of the forty-eight states.

"With the establishment during year of conditions better sta- sed than at any time since yar, there is now a splendid duction efficiency. Building tractors are operating more onomically, with reduced over- ad and reduced profits, while labor element is more efficient an it has been at any time dur- the past decade. The result a lower building cost without a duced wage scale."

BRITAIN'S GREATEST PROGRESS SINCE WAR MADE DURING 1927

Last Year Has Been Dawn After Dark Night For England

By G. P. WILLIAMSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Dec. 31.—The last year has been the dawn after the night for Great Britain. No year since that which followed the close of the Great War has been so marked as one of progress for this nation.

Following upon the politically and economically sordid year 1926, with its general strike and paralyzing coal stoppage, 1927, with its comparative calm has been like the bright day to which one awakened looks forward as the time to recoup the damage and loss of the yesterday.

The year has by no means been a perfect one, for former army majors and colonels still sell matches on the streets, men who might have been members of the Royal Academy still earn a bare living by pavement drawing and university graduates—many of them in the old-grad lists of Oxford or Cambridge—are still doing the work of office boys at office-boy salaries. In spite of all of this there has not been retrogression in England, for a slow but certain progress has been marked during the year.

Evidences of Poverty

To the outsider, who sums up this nation with a cursory tourist glance, there are evidences of poverty and destitution. To these people the empty docks, the silent factories mean but one thing—economic coma. Yet the student of industrial and economic affairs, who looks below the surface, finds growth and improvement.

While the United States holds two-thirds of the world's available supply of gold and now dominates the world with her wealth where Great Britain did before, it must be realized that Great Britain is in a measure succeeding in regaining her world markets which she lost during the muddled aftermath of the war. Despite the picture of poverty which over 1,000,000 unemployed give, Great Britain is still wealthy in pounds sterling and she has the most vast untapped natural resources in the world in her dominions and colonies.

Much Improvement

A glance at the following figures issued by the board of trade shows an interesting economic improvement.

Ten months ending October, 1926 Imports, £1,016,333,289; Exports, £652,184,682.

Ten months ending October, 1927 Imports, £1,006,965,771; Exports, £681,857,946.

In shipping, it is noteworthy that during the first ten months of 1927 tonnage carried by British ships which entered ports in Great Britain totalled 33,886,303 compared with 35,400,553 during a similar period in 1926, while tonnage carried by British ships clearing from ports in Great Britain during the first ten months in 1927 totaled 35,730,978 compared with 28,695,743 during a similar period in 1926. Likewise 1927 shows a tonnage improvement over 1925.

Lloyds' annual report of shipping shows a substantial increase in the number of orders for new sh given and also in increase in the number of ships actually under construction as compared with 1926.

The unemployment figures are significant. It is unofficially estimated that the average unemployed during 1926 totaled 1,500,000 out of an estimated 16,000,000 wage earners. It is estimated that the average unemployment for 1927 will be in the neighborhood of 1,100,000.

Politics

While the Labor and Liberal parties are making persistent predictions of a general election shortly, the Conservative party has remained firmly entrenched behind its substantial majority in the house of commons and has succeeded in passing any legislation it sees fit. In this year's municipal elections, however, the Labor party made substantial gains at the expense of both the Conservative and Liberals.

Among the legislative reforms, either already passed or contemplated in the conservative program are: equal franchise for women at the age of 21, reform of the House of Lords, an extension of the safeguarding of British industries plan to protect home industries against foreign competition and a complete agricultural reform to meet the pressing needs of the farmers of Great Britain.

Finance

The year has been marked by the floating in the London market of a large number of foreign loans particularly South American loans, for which subscription money has always been available and in some cases the loans were many times over-subscribed. In connection with this point it must be borne in mind that England is suffering under heavy taxation. When Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, produced his budget this year in the house of commons, many shook their heads and declared that the country would wither and wilt under the $30,000,000 burden—the largest in the history of the nation. But the doleful ones find at the end of the year that the Englishman is still able to indulge in his favorite luxuries of cigars, whiskey and sodas, cabarets and theaters.

The following figures should also be cited at this point:

Gold bullion refined in bars:

First 10 months 1925, imported, 22,717,756; exported, 27,403,087.

First 10 months 1926, imported 22,412,327; exported, 14,242,925.

First 10 months 1927, imported, 21,092,253; exported, 16,225,792.

International Affairs

Unlike 1926 with its Locarno pact Germany's entry into the League of Nations through Great Britain's help and its general progress as a year toward world peace, 1927 has been a path strewn with awkward obstacles for Great Britain. Particularly outstanding in the international affairs involving Great Britain during the year was the unprecedented raid on the official Soviet trade organization, Arcos and the Soviet trade delegation in the same building with its subsequent repercussion in the house of commons resulting in the breaking off of diplomatic relations with the Soviet.

During the year Great Britain was forced to informally intervene in a minor dispute which occurred between Albania and Yugo-Slavia. Through this intervention and that of the other major powers a spark of the same type which started the World War was stamped out.

Fuad Visits England

King Fuad of Egypt paid a visit to this country and held extensive conversations with Chamberlain on the question of the future relations of the two countries and on the part that England will play in Egyptian affairs in the future.

The subject of the war debts of Great Britain owing to the United States again brought an exchange of notes between the two countries this year. The exchange was over the question of an alleged misstatement which the American secretary of the treasury had made in a published letter. The matter was lengthily discussed in the house of commons and the bitterness with which many Englishmen view the subject of war debts was revived for a time.

British officials early in the year dispatched a large force of troops to the China station, particularly with a view to protecting the British concession at Shanghai against the same fate which the concession at Hankow endured when the Chinese overran it and forced many British to evacuate. Long negotiations followed over the subject of the Hankow concession and as a result the famous Chen-O'Malley agreement was signed placing the concession under the responsibility of the Hankow government.

Lord Cecil Resigns

During the year an important development in cabinet affairs occurred as the result of the failure of the tripartite disarmament conference at Geneva called by President Coolidge. Following the failure of the conference to agree, Lord Cecil, chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, resigned his post due to differences with his colleagues over the subject of disarmament. The failure of the conference left a distinct division in British public opinion, some maintaining that this government's representatives acted properly in refusing to deviate from their position, while others declare that the United States or Japanese theses should have been accepted by Great Britain.

NATIONS GET LEAGUE POWER DURING YEAR

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Correspondent)

GENEVA, Dec. 31.—The past year will pass down in the history of the League of Nations as the year of the revolt and rise to power of the little nations.

From the theoretical position of absolute equality in the league, the little nations established for themselves one of actual equality with that of the larger powers. This change within the inner organization of the league is regarded as having an importance equally as great as that of the many outside accomplishments of the league during the past year.

Small Nations Revolt

The revolt and rise to power of the little nations took place during the 1927 September assembly of the league and centered on the resuscitation of the principles of the famous Geneva protocol.

This protocol of "Arbitration, Security and Disarmament," which had been celebrated by the 1924 assembly, following the personal intervention of English Premier MacDonald and French Premier Herriot, constituted for the little nations of the world their Magna Charta of security.

Protocol Killed

Unfortunately, with the going out of the Labor government in England and with the return to power of the conservative government, the Geneva protocol was promptly killed by the former in a clear-cut statement made before the league council in 1925 by Foreign Minister Chamberlain, in which he declared that England could not assume the responsibility of guaranteeing the security of all the other members of the league.

The blow was a terrific one to league members in general, but to the little nations in particular, who in the Geneva protocol, had seen the absolute guarantee of their territorial integrity and national security—necessarily by the larger powers.

Domination Rankles

This domination of the larger powers in the league rankled the little nations for a period of three years until finally in the assembly of the past year, the smaller powers, led by Holland, Belgium, and the Scandinavian and Baltic states generally, rose in revolt.

A demand for the revival of the principles of the Geneva protocol was made, and in spite of the negative if not actually hostile position taken by some of the larger powers, the smaller nations in their spirited debate before the assembly and their subsequent fight in the latter's commissions, secured the recognition of the principles of the Geneva protocol as the basis of all future disarmament efforts of the league.

Still one other thing which aided greatly the smaller states during the past year to throw off the domination of the larger powers in the league and to establish for themselves a basis of actual instead of merely theoretical equality was the increase in number of smaller nations on the league council.

Hold Nine Seats

Out of a total of 14 seats on the council, the smaller nations now hold nine against the five major powers of England, France, Germany, Italy and Japan, and have thus acquired a numerical superiority and solidarity.

During the past year several other important changes have taken place in the internal structure of the league, which in the latter's slow growth and evolution towards an institution that will actually be able to control world peace, are regarded as being of greater importance than the mass of accomplishments in the league's regular political, technical and humanitarian fields.

One of these has been the consolidation of the position of Germany in the league and especially in the council. Although Germany was admitted to the league last year, it was only with the experience gained the past year that she has been able to assert for herself a position and power that has destroyed the last vestige of the council as a post-war organization composed largely of and dominated by the victorious powers.

In every decision that will be taken hereafter by the council, it is already apparent that Germany will hold and assert as strong a position as the former allies and the council thus becomes an actual organism of the collectivity of nations without reference to distinctions between victors and vanquished.

U. S. Takes Part

Equally important during the past year was the gradual drawing into the sphere of activity of the league of both the United States and the Soviets—the two great anti-league hold-outs and die-hards.

Neither one has joined the league—and probably never will—but both have recognized that collaboration with the league has become an imperative necessity in their own interests and have thereby lifted the league to the position of the dominating organization in international collaboration and relations at the present time.

As regards the United States she has frankly extended her collaboration to practically every field of league activity except the purely political. There is now hardly a league commission or conference in which the United States is not represented.

Russia Participates

As regards Russia, after taking an initial step by collaborating in the league's economic conference of last May, she has finally consented to participate also in all of the league's future disarmament activities. In other words, the Soviets will now collaborate in the league's two greatest fields of activity and with the presence there also of the United States, the league regards that she has virtually attained the degree of universality, the lack of which has been the greatest obstacle to her progress to date.

From the standpoint of accomplishment in her regular fields of activities the two outstanding attainments of the past year were the league's economic conference of last May, which leaves in the hands of the league the future economic reconstruction and collaboration of the entire world and the crystalizing during the September assembly after eight years of preparation of disarmament principles and program which the league expects next year to see translated into concrete disarmament result.

RANSOM TELLS STRIDES MADE BY EAST SIDE

By J. B. RANSOM
President, J. B. Ransom Corporation

The forward strides made by Los Angeles industrial and residential east side within the past 12 months have been nothing short of amazing. That such an astonishing transformation has taken place at the main gateway to Los Angeles in such a short period of time seems incredible to those that have not come in intimate contact with the development there.

Three phases have mainly contributed to this progress, namely, industry, residential development and boulevards.

In the vanguard of incoming industries is the great Pacific-Goodrich Rubber company's plant, next to Montebello Park, which, with its opening on March 1, 1928, will be the most modern tire manufacturing plant in the world. Today, with the exception of final stages of construction on the administration offices and boiler plant, the great brick, steel and concrete structure, 1770 feet in length, is completed. Most of the heavy machinery has arrived and is being installed. The 100-ton mixer, which has a capacity of 110,000 pounds of stock every 24 hours, has arrived and is now being assembled. To haul this mixer from the harbor to Montebello Park required nine freight cars. Several 26-ton electric motors, among the largest in the world, are en route from Milwaukee. Rapid progress has been made in the installation of production equipment. Fifteen of the 25 enormous vulcanizing presses are in place; 12 great tire machines of a total of 52 have already been installed; the masticating equipment is 75 per cent completed.

This enormous industrial project, operated by electricity, lying between Montebello Park and Bandini and a few feet south of Whittier boulevard, truly envisages the destiny of Los Angeles' east side as one of the world's leading industrial areas. Other great industries like Sears, Roebuck and company, Montgomery-Ward, Truscon Steel, Union Iron works, Sterling Electrical Products company, Brunswick-Balke-Collender, new $1,500,000 first unit of the $4,000,00 Produce Terminal, Simmons Bed company and Woolwine Metal Products company, have preceded or followed the lead of Goodrich and are, or soon will be, contributing their payrolls and workers to east side prosperity.

Then, we have the Union Pacific shops and 1000 acres known as the Union Pacific Industrial areas, in which Pacific Goodrich and 10 other national industries have located the past year. The Central Manufacturing district, in which the new Produce terminal, Montgomery-Ward and nearly 100 other diversified industries have located factories, is another tremendous factor proving of incalculable benefit to the entire east side.

GENE VIDAL

The popular pastime of panning coaches when the football team doesn't go so good resulted in the decapitation of Gene Vidal, former Army star. After the University of Oregon finished a disastrous season the scalps of Capt. Jack McEwan, head coach and Vidal, his assistant, were demanded. McEwan survived when the campus rallied to him but Vidal left.

Another Waner will join the Pirates next spring. No, not another brother, but a cousin to Paul and Lloyd Waner. The new one's name is Travea Waner, and he also is from Ada, Okla. He is said to be a promising athlete, and is likely to make the grade as his two cousins have the past two years.

TWO ENGLISH GIRLS SET OUT IN EFFORT TO SWIM STRAITS OF GIBRALTAR, UNCONQUERED

TANGIER, Jan. 2.—Miss Mercedes Gleitze, who started this morning in an attempt to swim the Straits of Gibraltar, abandoned the attempt this afternoon.

TANGIER, Morocco, Jan. 2.—Mercedes Gleitze, and Millie Hudson were attempting to swim the Strait of Gibraltar today. Miss Gleitze entered the water at 3 a. m. and Miss Hudson at 10:45 a. m.

The temperature of the water was 62 degrees when Miss Hudson started her swim.

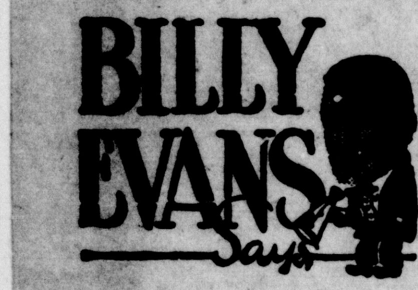
Miss Gleitze, a London typist, tried to swim the strait last month but was forced to give up after eight hours in the water. Previously she claimed to have swam the English channel but had no disinterested witnesses accompanying her.

Miss Hudson was a rival London swimmer.

Both the Gleitze and Hudson parties left Tangier early today. The sea was calm and weather conditions were favorable for the attempts.

GOT WINNER'S $5400

Alexander Alekhine, who recently defeated Joseph Capablanca for the world's chess championship, received $5400 as the winning purse. He will not defend his title until 1929.



Batting offers the opportunity for more unusual situations than perhaps any other feature of baseball.

In a previous article, I described how Roger Peckinpaugh, recently appointed manager of the Cleveland Indians, received five bases on balls in one game. Getting five bases on balls in one game is decidedl yunusual, but the manner in which Peckinpaugh registered was even more so. Not once did he offer at a single ball. He never once took his bat off his shoulder. Each time the count was three balls and two strikes before he finally walked.

Possibly it would have been better had Peckinpaugh's performance been heralded as a non-batting feat. In keeping with Peck's peculiar day at bat, that of reaching first base five successive times without being charged with a time at bat and making no effort to hit the ball, was a day which Wade Killifer experienced back in 1910.

Five Conecutive Sacrifices

In five consecutive trips to the the plate, Killifer failed to reach first base in a single instance, wasn't charged with a time at bat, yet in each case accomplished the thing he set out to do, move a runner or runners up.

The situations that come up in a ball game seldom call for the same player to sacrifice in his first five times at bat. Yet that is just what happened to Killifer.

I might add that he stretched his unusual performance over part of two games. As I recall it, four sacrifices is the record for one game. Killifer merely tide this mark, probably because he was up only four times in the game and therefore really had no chance to break it.

Washington and Detroit were the contending clubs. These two teams were scheduled to play a double-header on August 27, 1910 at Washington. The first game was a pitchers' battle and each of the fou rtimes Killifer came to the bat in the opening battle, proper baseball called for Washington to play for a run, making it Killifer's duty to lay down a bunt.

Not Easy for Batter

When the opposition knows the bunt is the play, because of the closeness of the score, the infield sets itself for such a procedure and it isn't the easiest thing in the world for the batsman to deliver.

Yet, in this game, in which I happened to be the umpire, Killifer on four distinct occasions laid down what is called in baseball a perfect bunt. While he was retired, he advanced the runner or runners, the task delegated to him.

Unless my memory is in error, Killifer was in second position in the Washington batting order. This is what is known as the sacrifice position. Yet, over 25 years of umpiring this is the only instance in over 3000 games in which I have seen the same player called upon to [illegible] on four successive trips to the plate and deliver each time.

ORANGE COUNTY BASEBALLERS TROUNCE PASADENA MERCHANTS IN GREAT MOUND DUEL, 2 TO 0

"Rube" Ellis' Orange County club humbled the proud Pasadena Merchants, 2 to 0, in a red hot pitcher's battle at the Orange County Fair ground yesterday, this proving perhaps the best baseball game that has been played here this winter. Pasadena has one of the strongest semi-pro clubs in the Southland and it was a real boost for the Ellis clan to eke out a victory.

Bertch, the promising youngster from Norwalk, hurled a sensational game for the home guard, setting the hard-swatting Pasadenans down with three scattered bingles, two of which were gathered by Leathers, shortstop.

Ed Daley

Ed Daley, former Santa Ana high school star, who reports to the Los Angeles club of the Pacific coast league in the spring, was the big noise in the Orange county attack, connecting with three safeties off Dave Salazar, the Merchants' range nominee. Two of the local lad's drives were good for extra bases. He also made two good catches in right field.

Daley opened the game with a double and scored on Perry Callahan's single. Ike Danning brought in the other Orange county counter in the fifth, singling and racing home on Daley's second two-bagger.

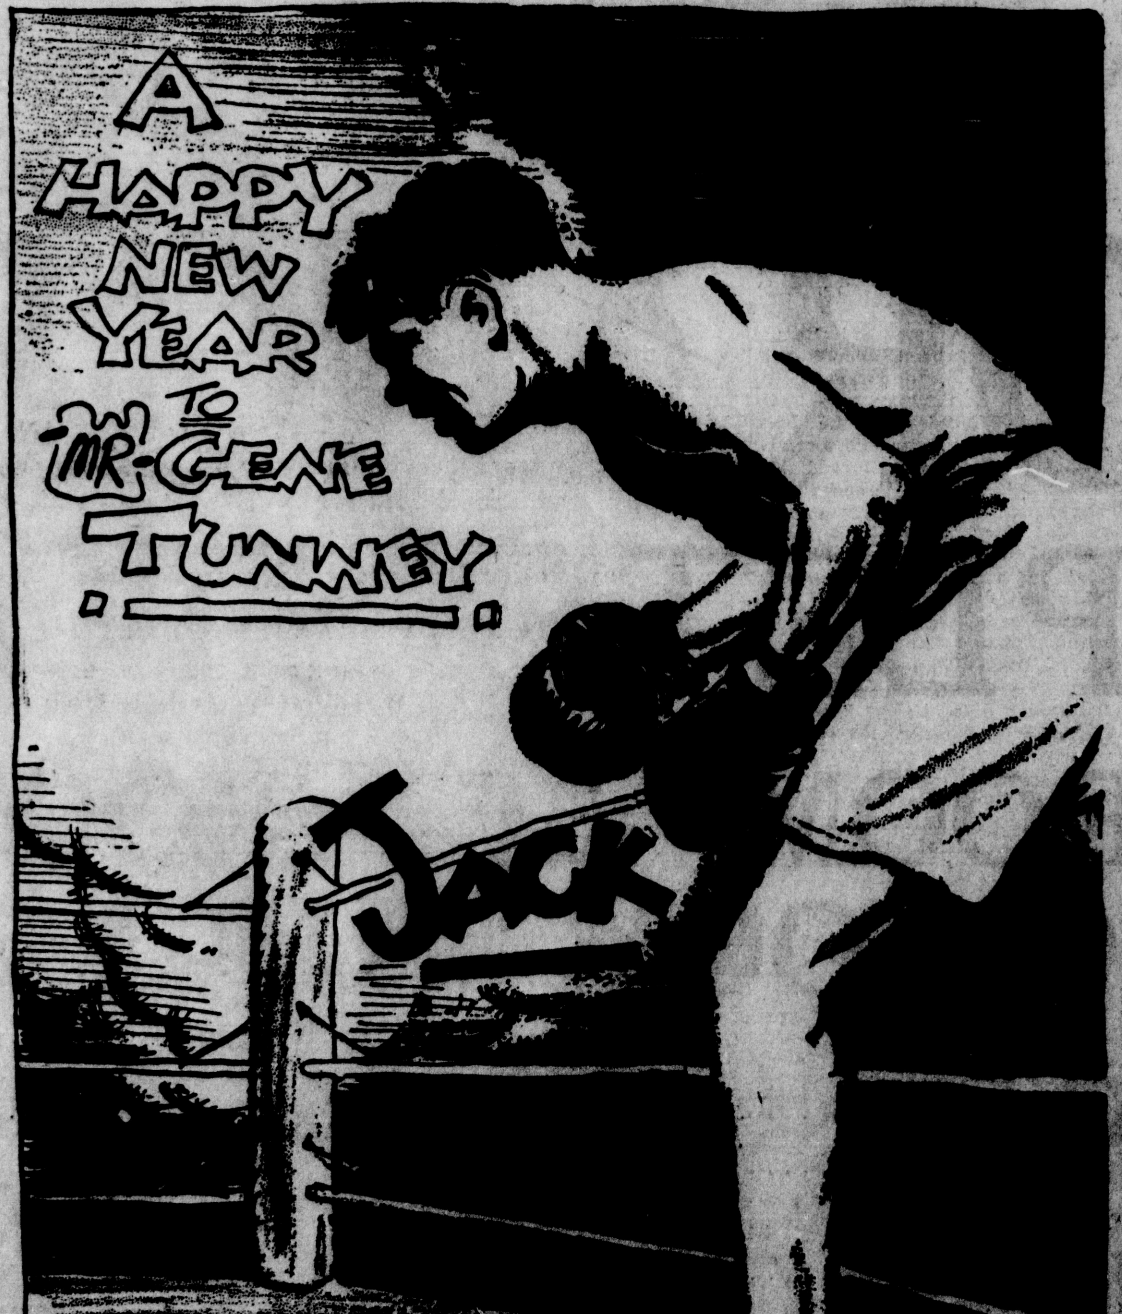
RICHARDS PREDICTS FRENCH TENNIS WIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—Vincent Richards, one of America's ranking tennis stars until he became a professional, believes that the United States' chances in the coming Davis matches in France are slim.

In a recent letter Richards predicted France would retain the coveted trophy for four years, and added that the value of the French team was not enhanced by aged veterans. He pointed out that all other countries were handicapped by the lack of young material in tennis competition.

JACK'S NEW YEAR'S DAY CARD TO GENE



A HAPPY NEW YEAR TO MR. GENE TUNNEY

Mr. J. J. Tunney, without a doubt will receive many cards from well wishing friends from Greenwich, Conn., as well as from all other corners of the country. It may be possible that his perennial opponent, Mr. Dempsey, will enclose a card. A greeting such as we depict above would be very appropriate. It portrays the real feeling lurking in the heart of the Manassa mauler.

Despite the ballyhoo that Tunney's prospective opponents are Delaney, Loughran, Heeney, Sharkey, and possibly Risko, you can bet your last shekel that Mr. Dempsey will be the big noise and incidentally Bill McGeehan will have a chance to dub this next great battle something or other, which seems to have been his privilege in the past.

Mr. Richard knows that Dempsey will be a bigger drawing card than any of the fighters mentioned above, in spite of the efforts of fight experts to make him believe otherwise. Mr. Tunney's popularity is waning to an alarming degree.

CARDS HOPE TO REGAIN HONORS FOR FAR WEST

Rival Elevens Both Boast Plenty of Power; Welch And Hoffman Are Stars

BY GEORGE H. BEALE

United Press Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Jan. 2—Two great gridiron teams, representatives of football as played in the eastern and western sections of the United States, fight for supremacy here this afternoon with the colorful tournament of Roses for a background.

The University of Pittsburgh, undefeated through a strenuous eastern campaign, meets Stanford University, which did not lose a Pacific coast conference game.

On the Stanford bench will be Glenn Scobey Warner, sometimes called the "daddy" of modern football, while guiding the play of the Pennsylvania team will be Coach Jock Sutherland, who learned the game under Warner's tutelage.

Pitt features a fast, brainy eleven, with the All-American "Gibby" Welch and his running-mate, Jimmy Hagan, to bother the Stanford defense.

Hoffman Is Card Ace

Stanford has a heady organization which literally lives on power. "Biff" Hoffman, who received more than passing mention in the various All-American selections, is the chief power generator.

A great line fight is expected to develop between McCreary, one of the Pacific Coast's greatest centers, and Cutler, who was rated similarly in the east.

The annual Tournament of Roses parade, considered the greatest floral festival of the nation, preceded the game. Floats made almost entirely of roses were in it.

Nearly one million people saw this demonstration, instituted to show that Southern California has a climate which produces the tournament flower the year round.

And under a cloudless sky and a hot sun, typical of that climate, 65,000 persons gathered to see Pitt and Stanford clash in the eleventh intercollegiate encounter of the tournament of Roses. The intersectional games were instituted in 1916 but service teams opposed each other in 1918 and 1919.

Pitt Has Big Chance

Pitt entered the stadium with a chance to brin gthe east to an even chance to bring the east to an even ford had the opportunity of giving the Pacific Coast a more conclusive lead.

The scores since Washington State trimmed Brown, 14-0, in 1916 in the first clash, show that the western representatives have won four of the 12 games, three have gone to the east and three have resulted in ties.

The most convincing western triumph came in 1921 when the late Andy Smith's California wonder team rode to a 28-0 victory over Ohio State. Notre Dame's 27-10 win over Stanford in 1925 is the east's best effort to date.

Previous scores of Pasadena games follow:

1916 — Washington State 14, Brown 0.
1917—Oregon 14, Pennsylvania 0.
1918—Marines 19, Camp Lewis 7.
1919—Great Lakes 17, Marines 0.
1920—Harvard 7, Oregon 6.
1921—California 28, Ohio State 0.
1922—California 0, Washington and Jefferson 0.
1923 — University of Southern California 14, Penn State 3.
1924—Washington 14, Navy 14.
1925—Notre Dame 27, Stanford 10.
1926—Alabama 20, Washington 19.
1927—Alabama 7, Stanford 7.

in the most approved manner.

Then to cap the climax to the unusual day, in the very first inning of the second game, after the leadoff man had reached first in safety, proper baseball again called for Killifer to attempt his fifth bunt in a row Once again he turned the trick.

Bunts Were Well Placed

All five bunts, by the way, were down the third base line and so accurtely placed there was no chance to make a play on the advancing runners, the team in the field being fortunate to retire Killifer at first.

It wasn't until the fourth inning of the second game that Killifer really had a chance to swing at the ball. As far as I know this is the only instance in baseball, major league baseball at least, where the same player made five sacrifice hits in as many successive appearances at the bat.

Just another example of the fact that baseball is filled with uncertainties, that it is dangerous to take anything for granted.

In my next article I will discuss the three best bits of pitching I have ever seen in a world series game.

MILLION FOR U. S. EMBASSY IN PARIS

CLEVELAND, O., Jan. 2.—Erection of a $1,000,000 structure for the housing of the American diplomatic and consular services in France is being contemplated, according to U. S. Ambassador Myron T. Herrick.

The structure as planned would be financed jointly by the United States government and by business concerns with offices in France. It was understood that Herrick had obtained the promise of influential members of congress for governmental aid in financing the project.

Plans for the building will be laid before the American colony in Paris when Herrick returns to his post as ambassador soon, according to present expectations.

Besides the consular and diplomatic service, the structure would house the American Chamber of Commerce, the American Library, and the Paris post of the American legion.

Herrick, fully recovered from his long illness, expects to sail for Paris early this month. He will remain at his Gates Mills, O., home with his son Parmely until sailing time.

OPERATION OF STATE COSTS $85,247,963

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 2—The net cost of state government in California for the year ending June 30, 1927, was $85,247,963.26, representing an increase during the last four years of 34.4 per cent.

This was disclosed here in the fourth annual statement of governmental costs, by State Comptroller Ray L. Riley.

Net cost figures for the four periods were: 1924, $63,428,192.15; 1925, $76,631,297.91; 1926, $82,835,-251.33 and 1927, $85,247,963.26.

"The two-cent gasoline tax, with its apportionment to counties, accounted for one-half the total and represented the outstanding increase during the four-year period," Riley continued. "Increased school costs represented approximately 21 per cent.

Hospital Costs Greater

"Administrative functions of government increased but $304,583.85 in the four-year period. Hospital costs showed a remarkably low increase of only five per cent while penal institutions increased 37 per cent."

California motorists who are inclined to "step on the gas" or commit other infractions of motor vehicle laws caused the greatest four-year period—that of the pay of traffic officers, which jumped from $232,789.88, in 1924, to $597,-876.62, in 1927, an increase of more than 424 per cent.

Some of the other increases shown during the four-year period were as follows:

Education Cost Increases

Education increased $5,487,253.95 or 21 per cent. Included under education the payments to elementary schools increased $2,652,324.11 or 18 per cent. Payments to high schools increased $1,245,426.08 or 33 per cent, while the University of California received an added $787,847.60 or 15 per cent.

Judicial departments, including superior, appellate and supreme courts increased $62,012.33 or nine per cent.

Administrative departments, including finance, purchases, motor vehicles, libraries, secretary of state, controller, treasurer, etc., increased $304,553.85, or 17 per cent.

Regulative departments, including the railroad commission, bank superintendent, insurance commission, boards of health, building and loan commission, real estate department, boards representing licensed professions, etc., increased $725,215.30, or 36 per cent.

Protective Functions

Protective functions, including board of forestry, Redwood park, state monuments and flood control projects, increased $109,738.93, or 18 per cent.

Curative functions, including all insane, feeble-minded and other state hospitals, increased $232,-254.24, or five per cent.

Corrective institutions, including Whittier, Preston and Ventura schools, increased $70,766.15, or 11 per cent.

Penal institutions, including Folsom, San Quentin prisons and the state bureau of criminal identification increased $418,457.19, or 37 per cent.

Interest on and redemption of state bonds increased $936,762.50, or 19 per cent.

The cost of benevolent functions of the state, represented by the veterans' home, Women's Relief Corps home, home for adult blind and care of orphans decreased during the period.

Apportionments to counties of receipts from motor vehicle registration decreased $1,652,278.72, due to the decrease in charge for licenses, first effective in 1925. In the two years since 1925, however, the cost increased $388,448.11.

JAZZ IN FIGHT TO HOLD FAVOR OF PARISIANS

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 2—It's a war to the death between American jazz and Argentine tango-bands with Paris as the battlefield.

The present mortality rate is about one jazz band a week, but with the hundreds of American bands in service in Paris [illegible] jazz bands [illegible] threatens to [illegible] one.

A few years ago, American jazz bands were supreme in Paris from the palatial restaurants around the Madeline to the dance halls atop Montmarte. In some theaters, the ordinary orchestras were given notice, the pit raised and negro jazz-bands put to work between acts. Paris became noisier than it had been at any time in history.

The stately French dances disappeared entirely. Jazz bands conquered the country and even on the greatest of French national fete, the anniversary of Bastille day on July 14, such music replaced that of the accordion and clarinet for street corner [illegible] was not unusual for a band [illegible] to play in three or four theaters and restaurants in the course of the day and night, banking away each week total checks for fifty thousand francs.

News of the earnings must have been carried to the pampas, for the last half year saw the start of the war and this winter finds tango bands and jazz battling on even terms.

There is no hiding the fact that Paris is as tired of jazz as is America.

SEEK TO TAKE PIPE OUT OF NEW H. B. WELL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 2.—Water and mud were being circulated in the Brower-Traveller No. 1 here today in an effort to kill the stream of oil and gas which is flowing from the hole. The well came in Saturday at an estimated flow of 1000 barrels per day with 2500 feet of drill pipe in the hole.

The project, a wildcat, was drilled out Friday and drillers were pulling out the drill pipe to make a production test when the well blew in. The gas pressure forced the heavy rotary mud up around the drill pipe and wedged it fast while oil, water and gas boiled out of the two-inch space between the drill pipe and the six-inch casing.

Oil men here today declared that the well looks to be the best in Huntington Beach in many years. The attempt to kill the well is being made so that the string of drill pipe may be removed from the hole.

The success of the well virtually dooms the east side of Huntington Beach for residences. Persons who have moved their homes time and again will have to move them once more if a drilling rush is started on the east side of town.

The Brower company has leases on a large tract adjoining the well and the California Petroleum corporation has a 60-acre lease in the district.

SEEK 400 NAMES ON FLOOD PETITION

ANAHEIM, Jan. 2.—Determined on a final earnest effort to set going the legal macninery necessary to bring about the formation of a flood control district for the immediate protection of this district from the ravages of the Santa Ana river, members of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce were busy today attempting to secure the 400 additional names needed for the initiatory petitions.

Secretary George A. Reid and H. N. White have been appointed in charge of a committee to make this final drive for names. They have pressed into service a number of assistants.

The additional names must be secured by January 6 if the petitions are to be acted upon by the supervisors in time to be considered on the 1928 assessment rolls, it is stated.

One of the main events of the New Year here was the American Legion hi-jinks at the Balboa pavilion. The hi-jinks, an annual event, attracted a crowd estimated at nearly 800 persons. An old fashioned bar occupied one end of the ball room floor. Prizes were awarded for the best dances.

A dance was held at the Newport Beach dance hall and many watch parties and club affairs were staged in the district.

Fred Story, owner of the Balboa Marine Hardware store, is considering the construction of a new business building on the northeast corner of Main street and Central avenue.

Rumors of a new hotel building and other structures are heard. Business men report that there is a growing demand for hotel accomodations and the better type of business structures.

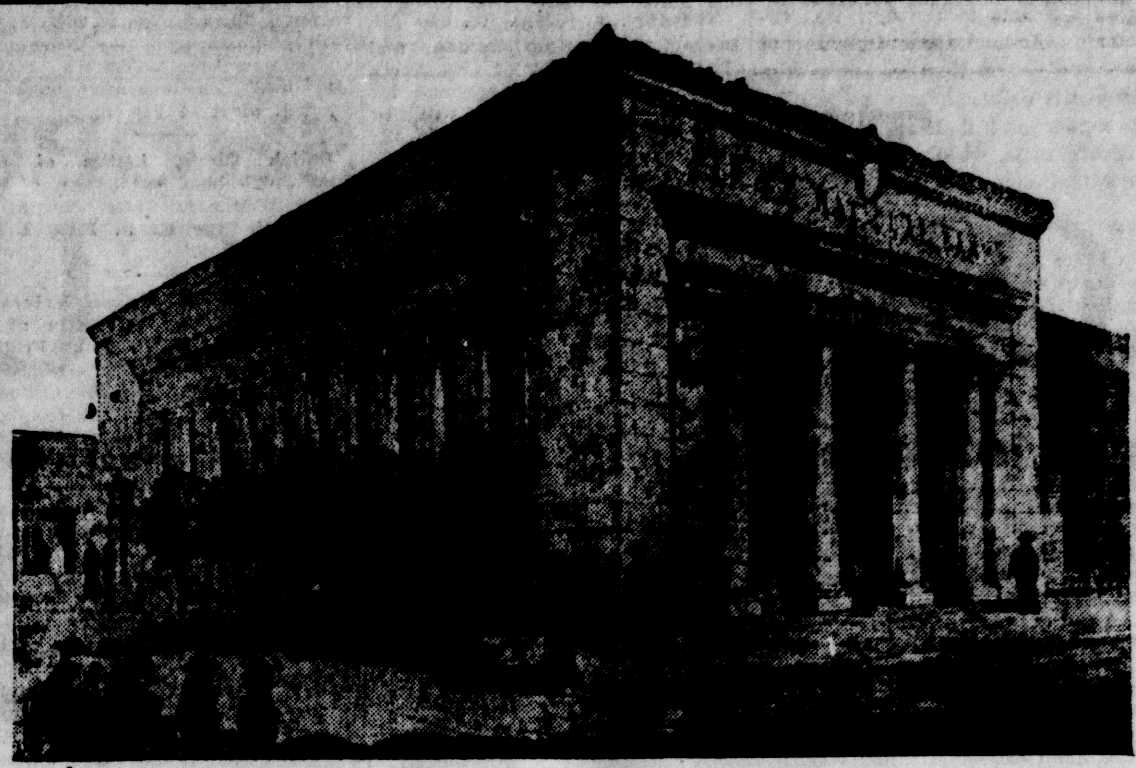
EXCAVATING UNDER WAY FOR ORANGE BANK

Below is the artist's drawing of the structure the First National bank of Orange will construct at a cost of $75,000. It will be completed by June 1.



ORANGE, Jan. 2.—In spite of the rains of the past few weeks, excavating for the First National bank's new building opposite the present site of the bank on East Chapman avenue is proceeding rapidly. It is expected that the structure will be completed about June 1.

The building will be used entirely as a banking institution with no office floors above, and while it will have the appearance of a one-story building, it will have an actual height of two stories.

The ground space measures 47 by 114 feet. The exterior finish will be of concrete, the plaster made to represent artificial stone. While the interior will be in harmony with the dignified lines of the exterior, the exact choice of woods and marble has not yet been made, according to a statement made here today by the bank's president, N. T. Edwards.

The cost of the building alone will be $60,000. When the fixtures are installed, the complete cost will be $75,000.

THOUSANDS OF FISH HATCHED ON TWO FARMS

WINTERSBURG, Jan. 2.—The hatching of fish has become one of the most extensive industries of the Wintersburg section, it became known with the accounting of the books of the two fish farms here.

Both of the farms, which are show places of the community, are owned by Japanese. The place of Henry Akayama is located directly in Wintersburg and that of T. M. Asaria is a half mile east of the Oceanview school.

The farms are at present of about equal size; about four acres being devoted to fish ponds. Each has hatched about 100,000 fish during the past year. Seven varieties, the Japanese fantail, telescope, lion head, Oranda lion, Calico, subukin and comet, are hatched and the main market for the fish, which are sold wholesale to the fancy fish markets, is in Los Angeles and adjoining cities. Daily trips are necessary to fill the demand made for them.

The farms are to be enlarged in 1928. Asaria plans on bringing his ponds up to seven or eight acres.

At the Akayama farm, water lilies and other flowering plants make the ponds a thing of beauty in the spring time and a number of monster frogs, the largest by far ever seen here, are an attraction for visitors.

Invitations were extended informally over the telephone, and the gay spirit thus invoked, distinguished the entire evening and its session of bridge. Honors were accorded Mrs. James L. Allen, Mrs. Leonard G. Swales, Dr. George Chapman and L. C. Luhr, each of whom received an attractive gift.

Supper was served immediately after the noisy greeting to the New Year, each table bearing in addition to its fine linens and supper equipment, gay favors, horns and caps for each.

NEW YEAR'S SUPPER DANCE IS COUNTRY CLUB FUNCTION

Farewell to the old year and glad welcome to the new was expressed in gay fashion throughout Santa Ana, Saturday night, but nowhere with more carefree enjoyment and charm than at Santa Ana Country club where members and their guests gathered for a celebration that included an 11 o'clock buffet supper and dancing to the accompaniment of all manner of gay favors, caps, whistles, horns, bells, confetti and all the colorful equipment that aids in welcoming a new year.

Pretty Costumes

Christmas decorations still in place in the clubhouse, lent a charming holiday air to the scene, which was enhanced by the many lovely gowns worn by feminine guests. All manner of graceful styles for dancing frocks were in evidence. Here might be seen a whirling chiffon whose brief full skirt glowed with iridescent sequins; across the ballroom would be a period gown in soft satin, with fur-edged circular skirt sweeping almost to the floor. Perhaps a costume would be half-veiled, half adorned with a brilliant Spanish shawl, in fact fancy seemed to run riot in the beautiful gowns noted.

The musical program was in keeping with the charm of the evening, the Roy Perry orchestra of Hollywood, which has delighted Country club gatherings before, seeming to outdo any earlier performances in the quality and spirit of its music.

Merry Supper Hour

As the supper hour approached, F. T. McGilvray, manager at the clubhouse, gave directions for placing an array of tempting viands on the large tables from which serving was accomplished. Huge turkeys seemed drowned in their own luscious juices; baked hams were tenderly pink and bristling with cloves; salads, appetizing sandwiches, relishes, tempting cakes, flaky pies, all imaginable delicacies appeared as though in response to the waving of a fairy wand. Supper tables were arranged in the card room and in the long arcade that parallels the ball-room. And all the favors that fertile mind could devise, were banked at the places.

San Bernardino Guests

A group of San Bernardino guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Flagg of 1320 North Broadway and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber of 2329 Bush street were entertained at a delightfully appointed dinner at St. Ann's Inn preceding their attendance at the clubhouse party. In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Donold Knapp, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Lockert, Mr. and Mrs. William McKee, Senator and Mrs. Ralph Swing, Elmer Meacham and Miss Neva Taylor.

Among the merrymakers at the country club, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mock entertained a party of eight, and the E. H. Warhursts had half a dozen guests. Mr. and Mrs. John McKittrick also had eight in their party, while the C. Sidnams had four, and Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Hayes entertained ten, including a number of the young married people of their family circle, home for the holidays. The Ray Townsends had seven in their party, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Bemis had eight, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Fulsome had five, and Dr. and Mrs. Slabaugh had four. Judge and Mrs. Emerson Marks had four and the O. H. Egges entertained six. The Edwin Van Meters entertained five, and the Fred Towners, seven. Others present with smaller guest groups, included Dr. and Mrs. Cassius Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swanner, Mr. and Mrs. John Martell, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bergen, Arthur Lyon, Dr. Chas. V. Doty, Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Harwood, Mr. and Mrs. Severin Schulte, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fisher, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Horace Fine, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tucker, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Warmes, Mr. and Mrs. Storey of Balboa, and Dr. and Mrs. Hall of Cos Angeles.

Dance Sequels

Arranged as sequels to the supper dance at the clubhouse were many informal gatherings where guests dropped in from dance or theater, to continue the merrymaking in honor of the holiday. Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Hilton were among the hosts so entertaining, and their interesting home on West Santa Clara avenue, was rendezvous for a gay group of friends who lingered for awhile, then continued to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Severin Schulte, North Valencia street, where some thirty other revelers from the country club had assembled, and where, not yet weary of dancing, the merry-makers lingered until a late hour.

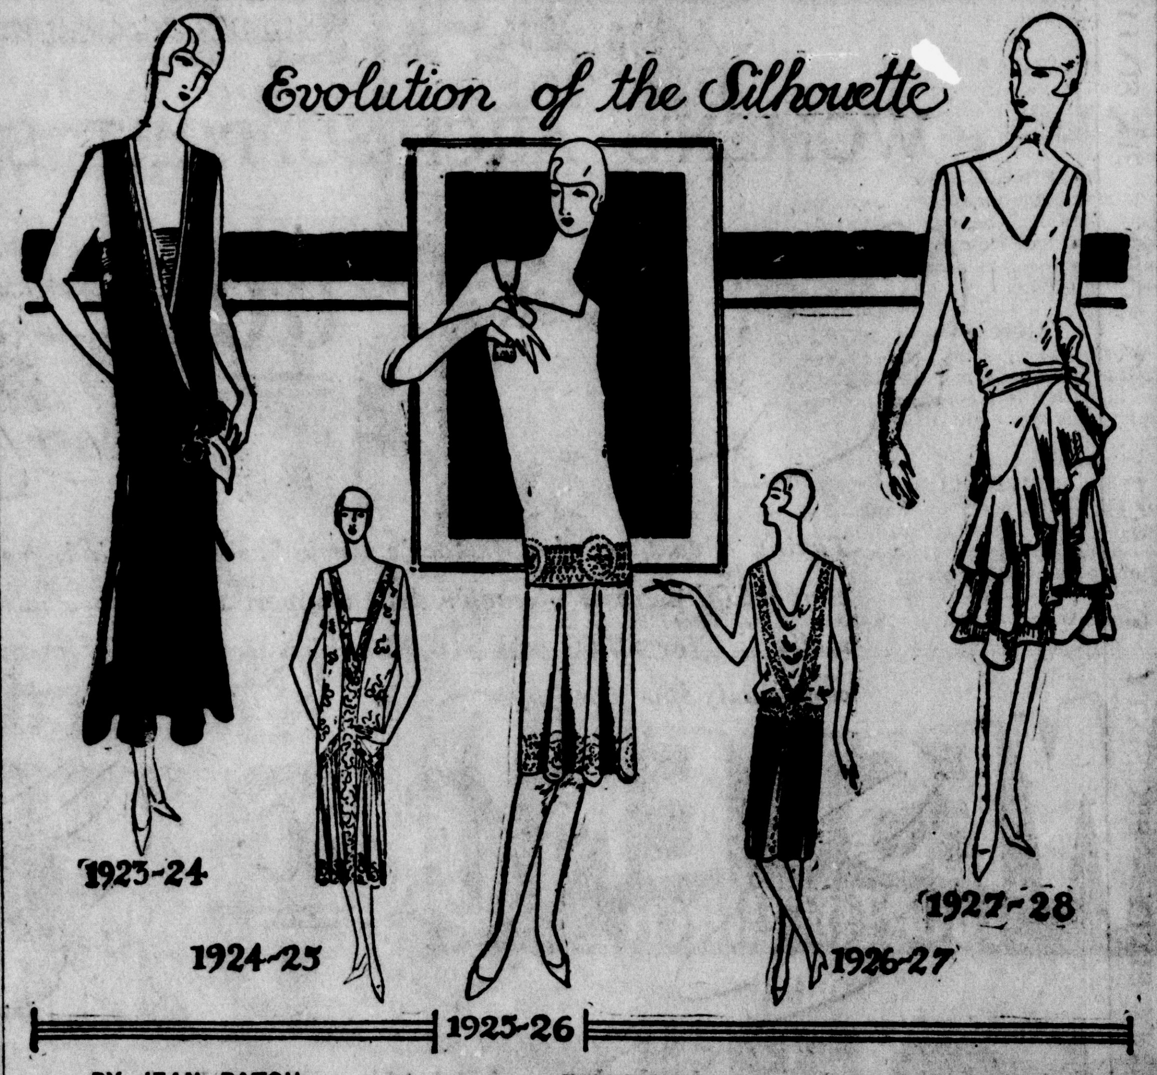
PATOU SURVEYS TREND OF FASHION



BY JEAN PATOU
For NEA Service

PARIS, Jen. 2.—Although it has been widely accepted during the past few years that the trend of feminine fashion had become practically stationary, an observant eye can see that this is not true. Lines have been shifting every season, and the present mode shows a decided change from last year.

The general idea of straight lines to follow the figure has been maintained. The modern woman demands freedom and grace, and she will, I hope continue to demand them. Neither she nor her dressmaker wants to go back to the horrible old days in dress. But fashions are by no means at a standstill.

The Well-Dressed Want Change

Well-dressed women want changes, but that insistence for freedom was a challenge to the couturier. I have been trying to free myself from the fetters of uniformity and at the same time give fashions a tone of stability.

If you examine a collections of sketches covering the period of the past five years, you are certain to detect, however inexperienced your eye, a gradual change in line from year to year. I think there has been an improvement each season, and yet the flowing lines have been maintained.

In the winter season of 1923 we had the exaggerated low waistline The next season the waistline was lifted with the aid of pointed effects. In 1925 came the pronounced influence of sport in women's dress. This was manifested in afternoon and evening frocks alike. The realm of afternoon and evening dress was overwhelmed.

Last year I struggled to get away from this and women finally began to see the advantage of a more feminizing movement. A definite reaction set in and has been continued this year. We now have very feminine afternoon and evening dresses, but nothing much has been sacrificed in freedom of movement.

A Gradual Movement

We have witnessed a new evolution of La Mode. The movement has been gradual because women adopt slowly, though progressively, a style that remains in favor longer than anything that is heralded with too much enthusiasm. The sport style was quickly greeted with enthusiasm, but it is not surviving.

Women are dressing again for afternoon parties. This trend is quickly discernible in any gathering of smart women. If at the Ritz at teatime you see many women faithful to tailored suits, these will be in velvet and with them is worn a lame blouse. Not so very long ago I trembled to see women arriving at a tea party in sports suits.

We are stabilizing fashions. Each frock is studied for the moment and the environment in which it is to be worn. This is the first requirement of any creation in order that it may help to make up an ensemble of elegance and good taste.

Sunday School Classes Join in Party for Their Teachers

Two classes of the First Presbyterian Sunday school, those of L. D. Mercereau and of Mrs. Mercereau, joined in holding a Christmas party last week which proved to be one of the most enjoyable affairs of the closing year.

The party was held in the basement of the Ramona building where ample room was provided for the several interesting games played by the guests. The Christmas motif was present throughout the evening's entertainment.

Musical numbers on the program included the singing of two songs by Annie Tong and Bertha Wong, accompanied by Beatrice Ng. The three girls are pupils at the Ming Quong school at Oakland of which Mrs. Donaldena Cameron is superintendent. DeGray Tuft also sang two numbers with Miss Dorothea Smith accompanying him.

Santa Claus, impersonated by Orlyn Householder, arrived immediately following the program, when he distributed a pretty gift to everyone present. Mrs. Mercereau received a lovely silk quilted bathrobe from her class while Mr. Mercereau's class presented him with a fountain pen.

Those present included Messrs. and Mesdames L. D. Mercereau, W. F. DeWolf, Ralph (Bill) Cole, Orlyn Householder, Lory Roehm and son, Richard, Homer Anderson, DeGray Tuft, George Lackaye, C. E. Terry and son, Harold Bracewell, Tom Smith, Harold Smith and son, Gene; Elwin Gammell and sons, Neal and Gale; Fitz Gibbs and children, Eileen and Shirley; Russell Johnson, Earl Christensen and son, Jack; Harold Moomaw, Ed Ward, Ellis Wagner and Burton Rowley.

Mesdames Elizabeth Shugart, Gladys Hildebrand, Olive Rapp, Georgia Sherrill and daughter, Jean; Hugh Osborn and daughter, Beulah May; Waldron, Alta Conway, Connie Vegely Baird, Marie Smith.

Misses Ruth Griffith, Barbara Johnson, Lydia Ward, Violet Colyn, Gladys Kyle, Mildred McGowan, Mildred Fessman, Eulale Colyn, Dorothea Smith, Helen Decker, Ruth Juhlin, Winifred Iman, Grace Brennecke, Doris Schoffield, Mildred Perkins, Jesse Ema Files, Edna Gammell, Juanita Snyder, Florence Fessman, Gladys Thomas, Evelyn Erickson, Elena Mercereau, Margaret Mercereau, Bonnie Southerland, Helen Howell, Annie Tong, Beatrice Ng, Bertha Wong, and Messrs. Robert Stewart, Bruce Decker, Avry Howell, Walter Cook and Mullins.

W. C. T. U.

Santa Ana W. C. T. U. will hold its annual "budget meeting" on Tuesday, January 10, at the home of Mrs. W. H. Thomas, 434 West First street, at 2 p. m. This meeting is for the purpose of raising the budget for Santa Ana union's part in the state W.C.T.U. budget for 1928.

The W.C.T.U. maintains three homes, but that is only a part of the important work of the organization, which includes also a new home for aged women to take the place of the old building which is not adequate for the present needs. The Frances Willard home for the care of unfortunate and homeless girls, and the Home Center, for soldiers and sailors located at San Diego, are maintained and supported by the state W.C.T.U.. Fifty cents per member is asked this year.

The meeting at the home of Mrs. Thomas is of a social nature, and there will be many unique and clever features arranged by the program committee to which everyone, whether members or friends is invited. Refreshments will be served.

VELVET SLIPPERS

Velvet slippers, like velvet hats, encroach upon the standard styles. A black velvet pair has silver triangles in modern design.

GOLD CAPE

A dainty cape of fine mesh gold lace is worn over a flowered taffeta bouffant frock that has a gold fleck in its weave.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by ALLENE SUMNER

I know "only what I read in the papers" about Governor Henry Johnston of Oklahoma and his secretary, Mrs. O. O. Hammond. But I am inclined to take at face value the governor's declaration that the lady is of the highest character, that nothing but a business relationship has ever existed between them, and that his enemies have indeed stooped vilely.

I SHUDDER

If the characters of all modern women who have been alone in hotel rooms with men should be assailed, there'd be some surprising results. One of the finest women I know, private secretary to a big executive, has worked practically all day with her employer in his hotel room for weeks. He is ill in bed. She reports to his room each morning, takes his dictation, gets letters out of the way, and carries on all her office work at his bedside.

FOR INSTANCE

In my own years as a newspaper woman I have probably interviewed several hundred actors, politicians, governors, senators, presidents, philanthropists, gamblers, dope fiends, authors, scientists, business men in their hotel rooms and thought no more of it than going to their offices. Modern men and women take casual business encounters so casually that it never occurs to them that the old die-hards may be "saying things."

IF IT WERE YOURS

A child was born in a Chicago hospital so defective that, if it lived, it could never move, talk or think. The attending physician, with the consent of the parents, made no effort to perform an operation which might have saved the child's life. The baby died. The same uproar which happens every time any physician dares take life away from a defective child arises now, even though the case is somewhat different. But who can question the act? If the child had only been physically handicapped, but had possessed a mind, that would have been different. But an imbecile, a cripple, a total "thing," who could be so cruel as to wish it life?

FRANK WRITING

Speaking of babies, every modern woman will enjoy an article in the current number of the alert new magazine, "Plain Talk," called "Why I Don't Like Children." The anonymous author scores this point especially well:

"I desire terribly to have a child. However, I can't see any reason why I should be swamped by this instinct more than by others. Since I live in a state of civilization, I repress other instincts. I don't punch people in the jaw when I am angry."

This is sound too.

SELFISH TO HAVE 'EM

"'How selfish it is not to want children,' they will say. But there are precious few people who have children for the sake of the race. Nobody has them for the sake of the children. The gift of life is not such a precious one; at best you cannot unwrap it; it is donated blindly. People have children for their own pleasure, and their egoistic desires to see small replicas of themselves walking about.

"They talk about having children 'as an experience.' But never having any children may also be an 'experience.' To live your own life as a unit, a unit that will be definitely terminated at your death may, too, be 'experience.'"

LUNCHEON—Casserole of vegetables, tomato jelly salad, rye bread, chocolate bread pudding, milk, tea.

Pot Roast of Steak and Vegetables

One flank steak, 2 ounces fresh fat pork, 2 onions, 3 carrots, 2 large turnips, 2 cups shredded cabbage, 2 cups canned tomatoes, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1 cup seeded raisins.

Cut pork in tiny pieces and cook in an iron kettle or heavy aluminum kettle until brown. Cut steak into pieces for serving after trimming and removing skin. Brown quickly on both sides in hot fat in kettle. Add onions peeled and sliced, carrots scraped and cut in match-like strips, turnips pared and diced and cabbage. Season with salt and pepper and add tomatoes. Add enough boiling water to barely cover meat and vegetables and sprinkle raisins over top. Cover closely and simmer for two hours. Do not let the "kettle" bubble but keep it just below the boiling point. Serve meat on a hot platter surrounded with the vegetables with the [illegible] [illegible] through.

Beauty Chats

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

Have you a pretty nose? Your first attempt in improving it should be to make the skin as clear and fine as possible, and after that, to see what can be done to improve its shape, or to overcome the defect of its shape, by the style of hats chosen and the way the hair is worn. However, I do not think any results will be encouraging until the nose is made attractive by a clean fine complexion.

We shall treat the skin first. If the nose is greasy and the pores large, a little borax in the water used for washing, will benefit this condition. Borax makes the water slightly antiseptic and will soothe any irritation of the skin. Boiled water with a little extract of orange or rose or lavender in it, is astringent; and perhaps better and easier than any of these, is starch paste spread thickly on the nose after washing, rubbed in and allowed to dry, then rinsed off.

Camphor in the water is fine for the skin, when the skin is red and the blood vessels are prominent. Vinegar makes the water astringent too, and helps overcome redness. But with all these, a mild, pure soap should be used and lathered freely over the nose and rinsed off well.

Really bad blackheads can be squeezed out. Metal "extractors" can be had anywhere. These should be clean, and when the blackheads have been pressed out (best done after washing with very hot water) the skin should be made antiseptically clean. Cold water, followed by an ice rub is the easiest way of closing these pores so no infection can get into them. Remember a large pore after the blackhead has been extracted is like an open wound, and a germ can cause all sorts of trouble.

Use no cold cream immediately after blackheads have been taken out.

Up, up, the big toboggan went, and 'bout a half an hour was spent in sailing swiftly through the air. The Tinies hung on tight. Wee Clowny cried, "Oh me, oh my, if we should fall down from the sky, I do not know where we would land, for land is out of sight."

Then Scouty answered, "We won't fall. Why, I am not afraid at all. Old Santa wouldn't send us up to tumble down to earth. We're just as safe as we can be. This sort of sport seems great to me. Let's try and make the best of it, for all that we are worth."

Then night came down, and pretty soon, somebody yelled, "We'll reach the moon if we don't stop this climbing. We are miles and miles in air. I wish that I could steer this sled so it would settle down instead. The only things that we can see are cloud puffs here and there."

The moment that this wish was made, the big toboggan quickly swayed and headed toward the earth. Wee Clowny cried, "We're going down. I wonder where 'twill take us to. Oh, there's a cloud. We're going through. I hope that when we land it's in some funny little town."

The big toboggan reached the cloud. This rather startled all the crowd, for in a moment they were in a mist, of murky gray. Of course this wasn't so much fun. But then they flew out in the sun. They saw some water down below, and Clowny shouted, "Hey!"

"We're doomed, I fear. We'll all get wet. I hope our sled does not upset." The long toboggan settled down upon the choppy sea. Instead of turning turtle, though, right o'er the top it seemed to go. It rode the waves and all the bunch were safe as they could be.

(The Tinymites meet an airplane in midair in the next story.)

LIFE'S NICETIES
Hints On Etiquette

1. When using the phone from a friend's apartment, what care should one take?

2. If one carelessly burns a hostess' table with a cigaret, or spills something or commits any other similar faux pas, what should one do?

3. If your hostess objects, what reparation could you make?

THE ANSWERS

1. Remember apartment calls are usually double the cost of an outside phone and leaves money to cover it.

2. Actually see that it is repaired.

3. Send her a note of apology with flowers or some gift.

Home Should Come First, Claim

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Mrs. John Dickinson Sherman, president of the Federation of Women's clubs, has issued a dictum which puts her in the class of the poet who sang, "I had not loved thee, dear, so much, loved I not honor more."

Mrs. Sherman, much as she loves the club for woman, puts home first. In the following lines are contained the sum and substance of her creed:

"If any club woman uses her club meetings or her club work as an excuse for dashing home on the supper deadline and stopping in a delicatessen shop to buy some cold meat and a scoop of potato salad, and offering that to her husband for supper—that woman has a wrong sense of values!"

I had hoped her ultimatum would wind up with a heftier punch, but the point is there just the same.

The woman who goes in for outside work and allows her family to come tagging behind, giving them only such time as she has left over, is not always the club woman, however.

How about the well intentioned person who works her fingers to the bone day out and in, for charity, who devotes her time to the poor in settlement houses, or the distributing rooms of an associated charity organization tying bundles, interviewing applicants, answering telephones and all the other things that go with it, and then goes home to a waiting family too exhausted to do more than open a few cans of food and set it on the table?

There is also the many-sided woman noted for her variety of activities. The hospital sewing one day, a rummage sale the next, a missionary tea, a library board meeting, the children's aid, and other things of like character in regular succession. "Somebody has to do it," she insists. And, of course, she is right, somebody does, but not she, if her family is neglected in the process.

As Mrs. Sherman says, a wrong sense of values! Charity begins at home.

Household Suggestions

HONEY FLAVOR

For variety in dressing, add a tablespoonful of honey to French dressing and use paprika instead of other pepper.

COLOR EFFECT

Now that hospitals are using rosy tints on walls to cheer patients, you might brighten your family visibly by trying rosy shades on living room lamps.

MEDICINE SIGNAL

If you have difficulty in remembering to take medicine, set your alarm clock each time for the next dose.

FINE GLASS

To make fine glass and crockery more durable, before using let come to a boil slowly in cold salt water. Let cool in same water before wiping.

RICH DYES

When dyeing dark reds, blues, greens, put a half package of black dye in with the colored, mix thoroughly and you will have a rich color.

DRIED GLUE

If your glue dries up, add hot vinegar, drop by drop, until it becomes liquid again. The vinegar should be at boiling point.

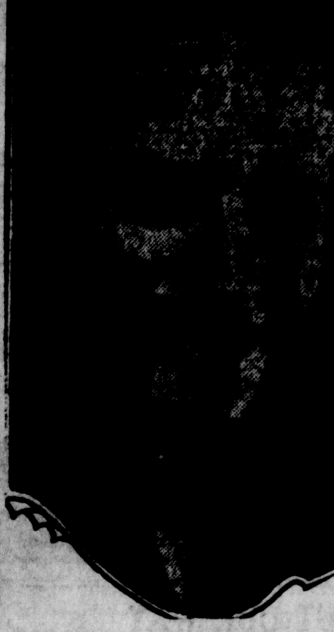
AT THE THEATERS



Reginald Denny, star of "On Your Toes," picture showing Monday and Tuesday at the Yost Broadway theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

It's a safe bet that you'll be sitting on the edge of your seat through most of "On Your Toes," the picture with that most inimitable of stars, Reginald Denny. This highly entertaining feature opened at the Yost Broadway theater last night for an engagement of three days.

Denny, the brilliant comedian, known to screen fans throughout the world for his highly entertaining and amusing pictures, gives a performance that beats his former work in such efforts as "Fast and Furious," "Skinner's Dress Suit," and "I'll Show You the Town." It is one of his roles that will long be remembered.

Although he is the star, Denny is forced to show his best efforts in order to dominate the picture, for the supporting cast is made up of a group of really capable players. Barbara Worth, as the leading lady, astonishes by her beauty. She is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful, not to mention skillful, actresses on the screen.

WEST END THEATER

A new comedy, "The Wise Wife," featuring Phyllis Haver, Tom Moore, Jacqueline Logan and Joseph Striker, will be the big attraction at the West End theater Tuesday and Wednesday. The picture is said to be packed from start to finish with laughs and thrills.

The story has to do with a domestic wife who makes the galling discovery that her husband's love for her is rapidly declining. He falls into the clutches of a beautiful flapper vamp and is seriously considering a divorce, when his wife takes a novel and decisive hand in the game. How she outflaps the flapper and regains her husband's waning love, is admirably pictured. The action is swift, and there is plenty of drama and comedy.

WEST COAST-WALKER

There is a treat in store for all admirers of Richard Dix, for in "The Gay Defender," now showing at the West Coast-Walker theater, they may see that romantic screen hero, wearing a rakish mustache together with a pair of fetching sideburns, for the first time in his motion picture career. And the effect is satisfying, fitting perfectly into the character of Don Joaquin Murrieta, in the colorful picture of early California history.

"The Gay Defender" gives a delightful portrayal of California life back in those storied days under Spanish influence and rule, and Dix, as the elegant young son of the rancho, is a knife-throwing, bullwhip-twirling gunshooter who finds time on the side for a good bit of romantic love-making with the aid of a ribboned guitar.

Miss Thelma Todd's cool blonde loveliness is in sharp contrast to the romantic young Spaniard, and her presentation of an American girl of the period is decidedly pleasing. Fred Kohler as the villainous "Jake Hamby," has the most blood-curdling laugh imaginable—one that is so convincing on the screen that onlookers are almost certain they hear it.

Fanchon and Marco's "Lampshade Idea" is extremely pleasing.

PROTECTION ASKED FOR AFRICAN SNAKES

JOHANNESBURG, Jan. 2.—(By Mail).—The curious question whether a snake is an animal has just been solemnly debated by the South African Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals at its annual congress in Durban, Natal. Several cases have lately occurred in which Kaffirs and other colored folks have deliberately ill-treated cold-blooded creatures and the courts seem to be in doubt whether the legislation that protects "animals" also affects fishes, toads and serpents.

In the thick brush that covers so much of African soil great numbers of snakes lie hidden ,their fangs ready for white settler or Zulu brave. An unwritten law compels all who see a snake in to jungle to kill it, and nobody in the southern continent disapproves of the rule.

Lately, however, a man at Pretoria was found to have fiendishly sewn together the jaws of a deadly adder and this started a dispute that puzzled African humanitarians, namely, whether the law punishes those who ill-treat snakes.

The cruelty congress finally decided that as all living creatures can feel pain, the courts should protect every one, be its blood warm or cold, and the South African parliament is now asked to amend the act accordingly.

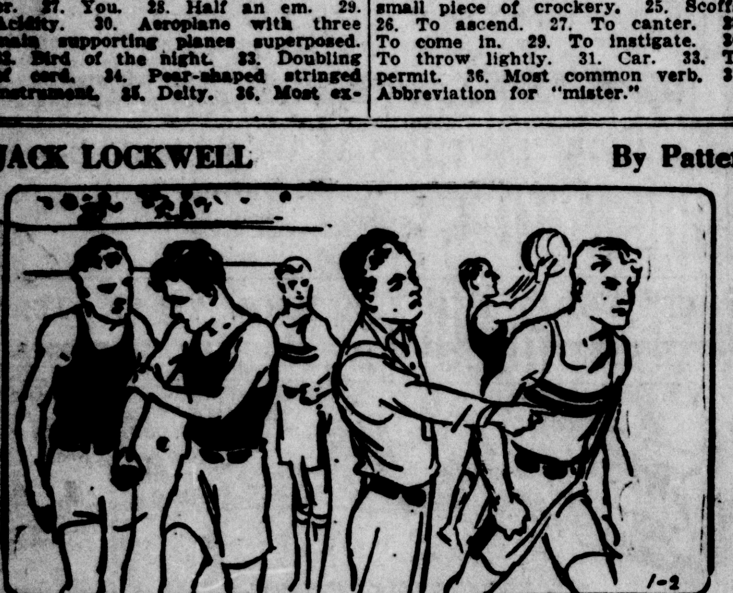
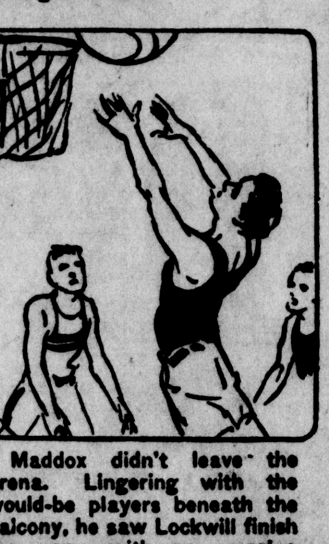
JACK LOCKWELL

By Patten



Jack would have been knocked out of the game if he had not been hardened by systematic and regular physical training, which had begun when, at the age of six he was taken in hand by "Brick" Judge. Now he was a bit groggy when lifted to his feet. Maddox, ordered from the floor, was properly hissed. Then the spectators, seeing that Jack would stay in the game, gave a cheer.

That cheer for Lockwill cut Hargen like the stab of a knife. Thenceforth Price's anger made his playing less effective, while Jack aroused more admiration and applause.



Maddox didn't leave the arena. Lingering with the would-be players beneath the balcony, he saw Lockwill finish the game with an amazing backward throw for a goal.

[illegible] by the other players, Jack was genuinely modest as he [illegible] after taking a shower. "What time is it, Lockwill, old wiz?" [illegible] Pie, who had failed to qualify as a player. BUENA PARK'S FIGURES SHOW CITY'S GROWTH

BUENA PARK, Dec. 31.—With figures for the past year substantiating their claim that they live in "the fastest growing community in Orange county," residents of Buena Park are looking forward to 1928 as another year of exceptional building activity. Completion of the new $94,000 elementary school, building of a new community church and parsonage and development of several promising subdivisions, are only a few indications that the ensuing year will be one of unusual growth and prosperity.

Although figures for the entire year are not available, building during the month of October alone amounted to $445,066, Buena Park boosters declare. Each week sees the start of several new homes, all attractive dwellings which add to the appearance of the city.

School Finished Soon

The new Linbergh school, situated at the corner of Fourth street and Stanton road, is now nearing completion, and will soon be ready to house pupils of the elementary grades. It is of brick and stucco construction, the first unit consisting of four rooms along the front. Plans are so arranged that additional units may be built when needed.

Six acres of land comprise the site, giving ample room for playgrounds and other school necessities. Wayland B. Shaw, John H. Page and Frank Nary are on the school board. Mrs. Shaw, wife of the board chairman, named the school.

Church Planned

More than $12,000 has now been pledged in the drive for a new community church and parsonage. The National Congregational church, with headquarters in New York, has agreed to assist in the campaign, basing its donation on the result of the local drive.

A successful drive had been conducted by the volunteer fire department, which gave efficient protection for the district during the past year.

P. O. Receipts Grow

Postal receipts in Buena Park amounted to $3881 for 1927, according to I. D. Jaynes, local postmaster. This amount marks an increase of $203 over last year's record.

Organization of the Buena Park Kiwanis club is regarded as an important step forward. The new club's charter was presented to the members recently by State Governor Wendell Thomas, who charged them with the responsibility of fostering a better community standing.

Club Sponsors Show

The Buena Park's Woman's club, one of the pioneer organizations for women in northern Orange county, has had an important part in developing and advertising this thriving town. Its annual Dahlia show attracts flower lovers from all over the Southland, and its aim of making Buena Park known to all as "the Dahlia City" is being realized.

The chamber of commerce has been an outstanding factor in Buena Park's progress, fostering all movements which make for growth and community betterment.

BERLIN PLANNING FOR TOURIST RUSH

BERLIN, Jan. 2.—The German capital has started in early with plans for recapturing a generous share of the 1928 tourist trade. A special mayor's committee has devised a "Berlin season" that is to begin May 12 and end July 15.

A novel feature of the "season" will be a series of concerts by the Philharmonic orchestra and other musical organizations to be given in the historic castles of Berlin and Potsdam. The programs will be made to fit the spirit of the period in which the various castles were constructed.

Operatic productions in the civic and the two State operas are to constitute the second quarter of the "season," to be followed by two weeks of athletics and sports.

During the closing quarter Berlin is to show what can be done in the way of show window display, house decorations, and artistic gardening both on private estates and in public parks.

OIL TEST IS PROJECTED FOR SEAL BEACH SECTION; NEW UNIT FOR POWER PLANT

SEAL BEACH, Dec. 31.—Seal Beach is looking forward to one of the best years in its history, three new enterprises promising prosperity for the community during the year.

A contract has been signed by the Dwight M. Robinson company to install the second unit in the power plant of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation on Alamitos bay. Machinery for this development has been ordered and it is understood that work will begin the first of the year.

The present building was erected by the Robinson company, with room provided in the building for the second unit. Electric energy is carried to Los Angeles over high tension wires to be sold to patrons of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation.

This corporation contemplates further development to meet the increasing demand of the big industrial and residential growth of Southern California and plans include the installation of two other units in Seal Beach in the near future.

The Crawford Motor and Airplane company, located at Bay boulevard and the State highway, includes a runway 500 by 3000 feet free of all obstruction. It has been accepted by the government as an emergency landing field.

It is the intention to establish one of the 12 beacon government lights at this point.

The factory is specializing on the A 1 monoplane, the feature of which is the one piece tail, which is said to make possible positive tubular control. This invention of Mr. Crawford allows of a decrease in dimension of the plane and in a test the device showed no stick force whatever, either in straight flying, hard "zooming," steep banks or sharp turns.

The La Porte parachute and ejector, a device which enables an aviator to lower his plane by parachute when the mechanism fails, will be given a thorough trial at the Crawford plant and if successful will be constructed for the market.

With this safety device Crawford plans to enter the 1928 contest for safe landing.

An added feature of the company's plant will be a school for aviators, with trained men in charge.

The latest development in Seal Beach, and the one that is holding the center of attention just now, is the oil development as represented by the preparations being made by the George F. Getty company to drill a well on the ocean bluff between Third and Fourth streets. The steel derrick is in place and the boilers are being installed. It is expected that drilling will be begun by the middle of the week. Twenty men are employed in the preliminary work

It is the intention of the company, it is said, to follow this well with others immediately if oil is found in paying quantity. The company holds a lease on the bluff from Alamitos bay to Seventh street.

CYPRESS ADDS TWO BUSINESS BLOCKS IN YEAR

CYPRESS, Dec. 31. — Cypress added two substantial and modern business buildings in the past year. The Priddy block contains five store rooms and the Anderson and Arnold building is a beautiful brick garage structure with show room and office.

The Priddy block houses the new branch of the Southern County bank. The bank is under the management of C. A. Jones, formerly of Grand Pass, Mo.

Ben Sconce established a groceteria in the store room adjoining the bank some six months ago. He met with such success that he has leased the adjoining store room and has added a complete line of general merchandising.

The store room adjoining the Ben Sconce store is occupied by the post office, recently established, and a building trades association. Mrs. W. E. Bowen is acting as postmistress and also is the secretary of the trades association. The association has as members a contractor and builder, plumber, plasterer, electrician, roofer and a cement contractor.

WHERE TO PUT HORN TO GET BEST RESULTS

By NEA Service

OAKLAND, Calif., Dec. 31.—"In what part of a room should the radio loud speaker be placed to insure highest quality reproduction?"

"Is there a choice between inside and outside walls as a location for loudspeakers?"

Typical of the endless flow of inquiries from radio owners are these questions, picked at random, from a single day's mail by officials of the Magnavox company, here.

'Forty per cent of our inquiring correspondents are women, mostly housewives, and the majority are large city dwellers," declares F. B. Travers, general manager.

Corner Commands Room

Here are Travers' answers to the most popular questions:

1. To assure highest quality reproduction, the loudspeaker should be in a corner. This guarantees complete sound-coverage of the room.

"2. Bare, blank walls are least efficient, as they often are responsible for objectionable reverberation.

"3. Satisfactory results may frequently be obtained from loudspeakers which are placed in front of tapestries or window draperies. These fabrics help to dissipate the echo.

"4. To obtain unimparied loudspeaker quality, minimum room dimensions should be 10 by 10 feet.

One Reason For Howl

"5. Air reaction sometimes results when loudspeaker and receiver are too close together, thus causing a 'howl.' Speaker should not rest on top of receiver unless precautions are taken to prevent this annoyance.

"6. Theories of grandmothers that musical instruments should never be located near an outside wall are fantastic. Equally good reproduction is obtained from loudspeakers placed near outside or inside walls.

"7. Table type loudspeakers perform most satisfactorily if placed at an ear lever when the listener is seated. When speakers rest on the floor or at an unusual height this distribution of sound is unequal.

"8. Best reproduction is obtained when loudspeakers rest on a scarf or some similar covering for the furniture piece. This precludes excess vibration."

OLINDA FIELD OIL IS USED BY RAIL COMPANY

OLINDA, Dec. 31.—The beginning of Olinda, the pioneer oil city of Southern California, dates back to 1897, when the first rig was erected and the first hole dug in the district of what has become one of the best oil districts in the state.

Doheny First Driller

E. L. Doheny, the oil magnate, was at that time a poor man. It was said that he sensed oil in Olinda district when he came upon men hauling dirt from a certain excavation in the Brea district. After examining the soil, he discovered that it had oil traces. Soon after, Doheny and the Santa Fe railroad took over 320 acres of land and commenced drilling. In 1900, Doheny sold his interests to the Santa Fe for $60,000.

Wells Still Pumping

At that time the rigs were built about 70 feet in height and the holes were drilled to a depth of 500 to 1200 feet. Many of the wells are still pumping and the average daily production of these "baby" wells is from one to 10 barrels. They are operated on a cable, and about 10 wells can pump from the same gas engine.

Later, however, the company found it necessary to go to a greater depth. Rigs were erected to a heighth of about 105 feet and the holes were drilled to a depth of 3500 feet. The average daily production of these wells is about 50 barrels at the present time.

Santa Fe Uses Oil

The Santa Fe company's field has never been a commercial field but has operated as a subsidary of the railway company, the company using the oil for its own purposes.

Activities in the field continued to increase until a climax was reached about 1913. Since that time the annual production has been increasing.

17,000,000 Barrels

Up to the present time, the field operated by the Santa Fe railway has produced 17,000,000 barrels of oil. The daily production at the present time is about 1100 barrels or about 33,000 barrels monthly. This, of course, does not include the total for other companies which are operating in the district, such as the Associated, the Shell, the West Coast and others. It is thought that the Santa Fe company has about half of the holdings in the district.

The outstanding well drilled in the field was the C. C. M. O. No. 96. This well was drilled to a depth of 8201 feet, making it the deepest well in the world. The hole was drilled in 1924 and was completed in two years. An electric engine was used to drill the hole.

Only Two Dry Holes

During the entire 30 years that oil activities have been carried on by the Santa Fe railroad or the C. C. M. O., only two dry holes were drilled. At the present time there are about 90 wells being pumped by the company. No new rigs have been erected recently and no holes have been drilled by the company in the last year.

Since the beginning of the oil industry in the Olinda district, the town has grown until it now has a population of about 1000, according to G. W. Cullen, district superintendent of the C. C. M. O. Oil company and a resident of Olinda for the past 20 years.

Homes Provided

Most of the oil companies operating in the district, including the C. C. M. O., furnish all employes with homes, Cullen stated. Approximately 250 students attend a modern grammar school in the town and high school students attend the beautiful new Olinda high school.

The assessed valuation of the Olinda district is about three and one-half million dollars. This is an increase over the past few years, caused by the recent activities in the oil fields there.

It is expected that oil activities will be renewed shortly with the purchase of the property of the Olinda Land company by the Union Oil company. Local people believe the Union Oil company intends new drilling on the property.

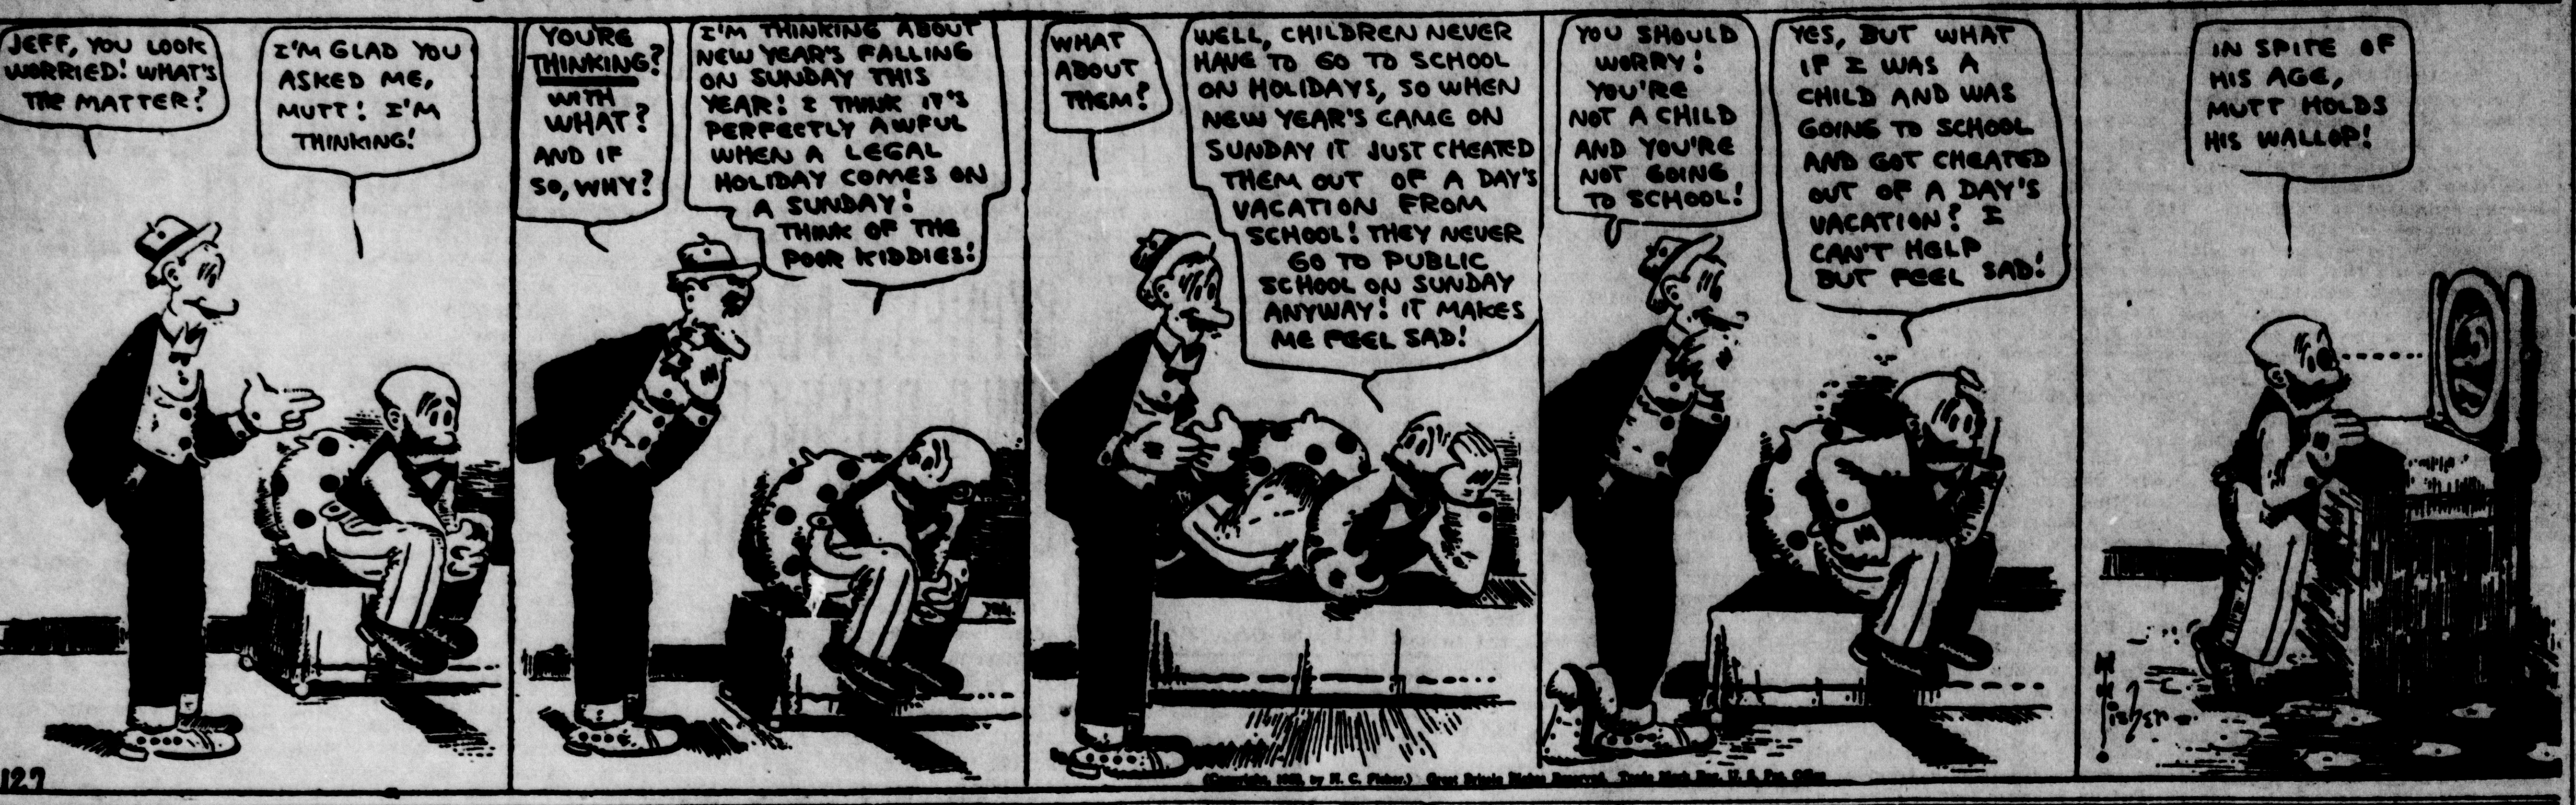
MUTT AND JEFF—That's Cheating The Little Tots By BUD FISHER



JEFF, YOU LOOK WORRIED! WHAT'S THE MATTER?
I'M GLAD YOU ASKED ME, MUTT! I'M THINKING!
YOU'RE THINKING? WITH WHAT? AND IF SO, WHY?
I'M THINKING ABOUT NEW YEAR'S FALLING ON SUNDAY THIS YEAR! I THINK IT'S PERFECTLY AWFUL WHEN A LEGAL HOLIDAY COMES ON A SUNDAY! THINK OF THE POOR KIDDIES!
WHAT ABOUT THEM?
WELL, CHILDREN NEVER HAVE TO GO TO SCHOOL ON HOLIDAYS, SO WHEN NEW YEAR'S CAME ON SUNDAY IT JUST CHEATED THEM OUT OF A DAY'S VACATION FROM SCHOOL! THEY NEVER GO TO PUBLIC SCHOOL ON SUNDAY ANYWAY! IT MAKES ME FEEL SAD!
YOU SHOULD WORRY! YOU'RE NOT A CHILD AND YOU'RE NOT GOING TO SCHOOL!
YES, BUT WHAT IF I WAS A CHILD AND WAS GOING TO SCHOOL AND GOT CHEATED OUT OF A DAY'S VACATION? I CAN'T HELP BUT FEEL SAD!
IN SPITE OF HIS AGE, MUTT HOLDS HIS WALLOP!

COTANT CLAIMS 1928 WILL BE ONE GOOD YEAR

By CHARLES COTANT
(Manager Santa Ana Branch of Bank of Italy)

Viewing conditions on the threshhold of the new year, the situation points to a good year for Santa Ana and Orange county, as well as the nation.

The prosperity of the citizens of Orange county is reflected in bank deposits which are in excess of $35,000,000 with virtually half of that amount on deposit in the banks of Santa Ana. The deposits here are approximately $17,000,000.

We have just harvested the largest walnut and orange crops in many years and prices have been, generally, satisfactory. The returns of $41,000,000 to growers who produced farm products this year has placed the land operators in position to wipe out many obligations, with the result that they are starting 1928 with a cleaner slate.

While there has been some damage to citrus fruits by reason of wind storms, indications are that returns in 1928 will be nearly as great as this year, when approximately $30,000,000 of "foreign" money rolled into this county in payment for oranges and lemons shipped out.

Speaking of national conditions, there has been few years opening with the situation more inspiring as to confidence in the future of the year.

There seems to be plenty of money at low rates to take care of demands for legitimate enterprises. Commodity prices are rather stable and the stock market has been more than holding its own. Crops generally have been good and a remarkable increase has been noted in the efficiency of industry, and this includes both labor and the economics of production.

A notable increase has been made in the savings accounts, it being estimated that $10,000,000,000 or one-ninth of the annual income has been stowed away in savings accounts. In California alone, savings deposits in state banks is in excess of $1,600,000,000.

The beginning of a new year always is a time of great demand for securities, but this year the pressure of new funds in the market is more pronounced than usual.

It should not be necessary to remind investors that as commodity prices decline, the purchasing power of the dollar increases. Compilations have been made proving that former long-swing declines in commodity prices have lasted thirty-six and forty years each. We may accordingly anticipate a continuance of the present downward movement, which began in 1920. When commodity prices advance and purchasing power declines, the stockholder may have an advantage over the bondholder, but in the present era bonds appear to be a better long pull investment in purchasing power.

By SOL HESS

AT THE BIG NEW YEAR CELEBRATION RUDY, ON THE ADVICE OF ROCKNEY FLINT, PUT A SLEEPING PILL IN ERNIE'S GLASS BUT IN SOME MYSTERIOUS MANNER NEBB GOT THE DOSE HIMSELF.
SO THAT WAS THE NEW YEAR PARTY YOU GAVE IN GRATITUDE FOR YOUR GOOD FORTUNE!—DOING AN IMITATION OF RIP VAN WINKLE! I NEVER WAS SO MORTIFIED IN MY LIFE.
IF IT WASN'T FOR MY BROTHER IT WOULD HAVE BEEN OVER BEFORE IT STARTED—YOU PASSED OUT BEFORE THE OLD YEAR.
WELL IF IT WASN'T FOR YOUR BROTHER, MAYBE I COULD HAVE ENJOYED THE FESTIVITIES—KIND PROVIDENCE FANNED ME INTO A TRANCE SO I DIDN'T HAVE TO SUFFER!
I KNOW I DROPPED THAT SLEEP PILL INTO HIS GLASS—HOW THEY GOT SWITCHED IS A MYSTERY TO ME—HOWEVER ONE OF US HAD TO PASS OUT FOR MY CONTENTMENT

EVENING SALUTATION

—Masefield.

WHAT OF 1928

1927 is behind us. On the whole there are those who would say it has been a good year. But as compared with 1926, there has been a marked recession. Those barometers of economic conditions,—bank clearings, car loadings, and the steel trade,—have veered over from fair to changeable, and even to storm. There has been a great deal of unemployment in many parts of the country. The farmer has not been very prosperous. The merchant, as a rule, has not done as well as in 1926.

It is hardly to be supposed that the prosperity of 1926 could have gone on increasingly. There is a limit even in a prosperous country like our own to the growth of prosperity, and the ability of the people to absorb the ever increasing mass of production. These times of recession are certain to come and check our prosperous march.

1928 promises something better. Just what influence the presidential campaign is going to have cannot yet be foreseen. But the prospects now are that neither of the great parties are going to plan anything very radical. Still, we can hardly expect the next administration to be quite as complacent as the present one. It is about time for a stirring of the waters. Rumblings are being heard. An attack on the great public utility corporations is in the offing. Government in business will probably not fall under the tabu as completely as it has for the last six years. Yet, business is looking forward with confidence. As Europe settles its problems, the South-American becomes more friendly, as we have every reason to hope from the conciliatory attitude of Ambassador Morrow in Mexico and the coming Pan-American Conference in Havana, we may expect it all to react favorably upon our trade and commerce.

Things are looking brighter for 1928. The barometer is going back to fair.

OCEAN AVIATION

Despite the losses of life which have marked the attempts to fly across the Atlantic, commercial aviation is among the prospects of the not distant future. In England at the present time a fleet of large dirigibles is being built for ocean transportation. Whether it ever will be is still on the knees of the gods. But the trip of Col. Lindbergh is still unique, and every attempt to duplicate his feat has resulted in partial or complete disaster. But postal aviation in this country is a regular and a successful achievement. Commercial aviation in Europe has been developed on a very large scale, as all of us who have been there know. Aviation lines connect pretty much all the great centers of population in Europe today, including London, Amsterdam, Berlin, Paris, Moscow, Constantinople, Vienna, and many other cities.

But if the airplane is not yet practicable for ocean transportation, the dirigible is. All the facilities of an ocean liner are to be found on these air ships. Promenade decks, ample staterooms, dining salons, lounges, and all the rest may be found in them. To be sure, they will not be able to carry any considerable numbers, but the question of their ultimate size has not yet been computed. There is every reason to believe that those now being built are far from being the last word in either size or efficiency and comfort.

As boys we used to read Jules Verne's "Around the world in Eight Days." This was as fabulous as the tales of Munchausen, the most cheerful liar of the middle ages. But such flights of imagination today astonish no one. Wonders of which these fancy venders never dreamed are realities today. Ocean aviation is among the more immediate prospects, and it will not now be long before a flight between New York and London will be as unromantic as a flight between London and Paris.

THE INVESTMENT TRUST

The growth of Investment trusts in the financial world is quite significant. The Investment Trust buys a greater or less number of the securities listed on the Stock Exchange and pools them. Against the securities thus pooled common and preferred stock is issued, and the profits from the various securities pooled is divided among the holders of these stocks. Almost all these Investment Trusts confine their holdings to well seasoned listed stocks, and there is every evidence of security. On the surface, it appears that those acquainted with all the facts about the stock market are better able to judge of a security than the average man who knows nothing about the stock market. The presumption is that those who manage the Investment Trust watch the stock market, buy advantageously, and sell when unfavorable conditions arise for any of the securities held. In that way whose who hold stock in one of these Investment Trusts are supposed to profit by the superior knowledge of those who manage them and by the natural growth of those industries against which stock is held.

Here again, as in any individual industry, everything depends upon the management. If shrewd, discerning men manage an Investment Trust, they are safe. If blundering and incompetent men manage an Investment Trust, they are as unsafe as any single security. It may be that the gains and losses will about balance each other, in which case the yield on the Investment Trust stock may be that of the average bond.

There is considerable questioning going on in the financial world with reference to the increasing number of these investment Trusts. There are no less than a hundred of these Trusts already listed. It is readily conceivable that some of these Investment Trusts may become so large that with their large holdings they might materially influence the prices on the stock market. There is danger of stock manipulations; and there is a growing demand that some regulation be made of these Investment Trusts, just as of public utilities and railroads.

It remains to be seen just how these Trusts are going to develop. In the meantime it would be well for the investing public to scrutinize carefully the management of these Trusts before taking a flyer in them. They all look the same. Pretty much all of them carry the same securities; at least they advertise the same securities. But there is no reason why they may not take up enterprises which are purely speculative, and which are not as well seasoned as those which they list. The recent unfortunate developments of many of the Joint Land Stock Banks now in the hands of receivers urges caution on the part of the small amateur investor.

The Shame of the Schools

Imperial Valley Press

Nikolai Sokoloff, famous American orchestra conductor, assisting at a high school concert which included a big school chorus, rebuked the school for the lack of interest shown.

"If this were a baseball or basketball game, or other physical exhibition," he said, "we would have turned thousands away. But here we have a group of children doing a serious musical work marvelously, and the auditorium is less than half filled.

"I want you to tell all your friends that I consider it a shame that the community hasn't filled the this auditorium for the occasion."

Such incidents are always a shame, indicating as they do the way physical performance is preferred to intellectual and artistic performance in American schools. What, if anything, can be done about it?

True to Label

Fresno Republican

A German of some distinction who was fortunate—or unfortunate—enough to have spent some time in the United States, faces fine in Berlin. Because while in this country he obtained a "Ph. D." degree from an American university and used it in his native land.

There is no need for any red blooded Americans to start a new on-to-Berlin campaign because of this insult to Uncle Sam's universities.

We had best make sure with just what respect we ourselves treat university degrees.

For instance, just how many of those who read this know how a "Ph. D." is earned, or why it is awarded?

And among those who know what "Ph. D." means, how many would pay any respect to it unless after it was appended the name of the university issuing it and the subject for which it was given?

The real difference is that in Germany they seek to standardize the value of all titles, while in the United States we have such freedom about titles that they are meaningless.

We give anyone a chance to deceive anyone else with titles. So "Dr." is of no more moment than "Col." or "Judge." A. "Col." may be a Mexican colonel from a Gomecista band. The judge may have been a police judge in Maine in 1874. The "Dr." may have been a veterinarian from before the time that glanders had been distinguished from the bots.

While in Germany "Herr Doktor" is a title given respect by the wearer and therefore by his acquaintances.

And by the government.

So if a man calls himself "Dr." on any other basis than that recognized by the government, he may be fined or jailed.

Do you think this is a harsh abuse of liberty? Perhaps it is.

But so think all men who seek to trade on the reputations of better men.

Why should not "true to label" be a quality of titles as well as of goods?

Or else dispense with all titles as meaningless.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

BITSIE'S DOLLIE

Bitsie is an only child, just one little girl, three years old, in a household of adoring adults. Bitsie loves dollies. All kinds of dollies. You see they are the nearest things to playmates she can get. Bitsie and her mother went to call on another lady who had a little girl past four. The mothers talked and sewed while the two little girls played.

Bitsie trotted across the floor to her mother holding up a doll.

"Listen mother. It says, 'Ma-ma.' Hear it? Isn't it darling?"

"Yes dear. It is a lovely dollie."

"Could I have it, mother?"

"O no, dear. No, no. That is Eleanor's dollie."

Bitsie turned away, the dollie under her arm and no more was heard from her until time for the good-byes. Mother settled her into the nice wooly overcoat, fastened her gloves and patted her cap into place. "Say good-bye to Eleanor, dear, and come along."

Bitsie went into the playroom, said goodbye to Eleanor and went along.

Mother sat in the living room telling grandmother about the pleasant visit. "And Bitsie was just as good as she could be. Played so nicely with Eleanor, didn't you darling?"

"Ma-ma, ma-ma," squealed a tiny voice, a voice like a smothered kitten's.

"What's that?" said grandmother.

"O, dear," said mother, her face going pale. "Mother, mother, Bitsie has stolen Eleanor's doll. What ever shall we do?"

"Sh-h-h. She took a doll? Don't frighten her about it. You let me talk to her. You are too excited."

"O mother. Excited? My baby has stolen a doll."

"Nonsense. Babies steal nothing. You be quiet and let me talk to Bitsie. She took something she wanted. That's all."

"What is it you have there dear?" asked Grandmother bending over Bitisie's chair.

"A beautiful dollie, gramma. She 'says ma-ma. Listen."

"Lovely. Lovely. Such a beautiful dollie. Where did she come from I wonder?"

"I brought her from Eleanor's house."

"Did Eleanor say you might?"

"No. I just took her. Cause I wanted to."

Then grandmother sat beside Bitsie and told her how sorry Eleanor would be, how she would miss her lovely dollie, how she would cry and refuse to be comforted and how her heart would ache the worse to know that her own little friend had done this thing. Bitsie stood out as long as three years could stand and then she held up the dollie. "Take her back Gramma. Take her back. Quick so I can't see you take her back."

All three years understands about it is that it is easy to take what you want and hard to give it back. Be very patient and understanding and teach with what wisdom you can muster the code of mine and thine.

Give This Little Girl a Hand

Just Folks
by Edgar A. Guest

ON JANUARY SECOND

On the second day of January
Take a look at me!
I am very, very, very Good as I can be.
If with me you are acquainted
You will note I've been repainted,
Overhauled, and it is true,
Every bit as good as new.

On the second day of January
Nothing's wrong with me.
My smile is bright and merry,
And with none I disagree.
On all six my engine's hitting,
And my gears are nicely fitting,
I don't back-fire and I look
Like the pictures in the book.

On the second day of January
I don't smoke too much.
My moods are not contrary
And I'm lovely to the touch.
In my secret service station
I've had thorough renovation,
And been cured of habits bad
Which so many years I've had.

On the second day of January
I'm a cooing bird!
See me then, but oh, be wary
Of my conduct on the third.
Let not shining paint deceive you,
Like an old car I may grieve you.
Prey to habit I may stall
On the first hill after all!

Too Much Sleep?

Professor F. A. Moss of George Washington university says we sleep too much, losing thereby valuable time in which we might increase productivity. He urges that the eight-hour standard be reduced to six hours.

If Dr. Moss would have us devote that extra two hours every day to directly increasing our productivity, we doubt the wisdom of his suggestion. What we need to increase or improve, according to our view, is that old-fashioned quality that seems to have waned a great deal.

A dozen workmen go out now and put up a house in a couple of days. It used to take weeks, but the house was well built, and it stood. The house of course is but one example of a thousand that could be cited. Modern speed standards hasten the work, but often leave jagged edges. Two hours a day more devoted to improving the quality and durability of the things we produce might be worthy.

If a man can sit up a little longer and figure out ways by which a few dollars a day can be saved in production, he is regarded as a valuable man by his company. But if he brings in plans that call for less profit but an improved product, generally he is called upon the carpet and asked to show cause.

We seem to be producing everywhere rapidly enough, but not good enough. This even applies to the writing of editorials, such as this, which probably would have been a better editorial if it had been worked upon for just a few more minutes.

Barbs By Tom Sims

Armies in northern China now are introducing gas in their warfare. It has taken China a long time to become civilized, but they're finally getting around to it.

Big Bill Thompson has named as health commissioner a physician who "made a new face" for the mayor after he was hurt in an explosion. Maybe Mr. Thompson figured that was the kind of health expert Chicago needed.

Lights of New York
By GRANT DIXON

ABOUT COLONEL LINDBERGH

NEW YORK, Jan. 2.—The New York tumult and the shouting having died, temporarily at least, Lindbergh, before Washington put its spotlight on him, was able to get about town without too much ado and was a big success socially. From the fact that he was reported here and there in the more active social circles, I conclude that he had been accepting many invitations for receptions, teas and dinners. At least three of his hosts likewise entertained Tunney about a year ago. This, as Arthur Brisbane would observe, is interesting.

I heard not a single word of criticism about the young aviator. He seemed to say and do the right thing. I saw him once at a tea where he was surrounded by several young ladies with whom he was talking over his flight across the Atlantic. They found him still willing, even eager, to discuss his experiences and emotions on this adventure. I also was in Abercrombie & Fitch's one day when he came in and, while this resulted in some embarrassment to me, it happened to give me an opportunity to see the mass public in action.

His arrival in the men's department of the store caused no particular flurry. Indeed, he was for once rather ignored. He was actually forced to wait a minute or two until a salesman finished with another customer. As a result he seemed happy. While he laced up a hunting boot he was trying on, he whistled one or two notes of "All Alone" and wiggled his toes contentedly. He was not even blushing.

With my heart pleasantly light at the refreshing spectacle of a hero being for once treated like a human being, I stepped happily into the elevator and asked to be let off at the women's department, to which I was bent on a Christmas errand. There my dreams of the sanity of the human race were shattered. Packed before the elevators, lips parted and handkerchiefs ready to wave, a dozen or two ladies were banked, craning, stretching, peering for a glimpse of the young colonel as he passed the floor.

Into this throng was I delivered, and as the elevator closed behind me I was met with such a barrage of frowns, sneers, scornful glances, groans of "Oh, it's not him!" and Who said that was Lindy?" that, with burning ears, I sneaked to the rear of the store and made my way out through a door labelled Emergency Exit."

A VIOLINIST ABROAD

I have heard of some little unscheduled things that happened during Heifets' recent long tour of far countries, and print them here in connection with his coming to town last week.

What should happen (not to be chronological) but that he should be apprised on his way into Honolulu harbor that it was against the law to import two bottles of 1811 brandy he had got in New Zealand. Working swiftly, an admiring and influential passenger procurred permission for the violinist to 'use intoxicating liquors for medicinal purposes." Everything was fine until the customs officials became technical and asked him whether he had a permit from Washington to land medicinal intoxicants. He said "no" and they said "ah," but, because they seemed not too unhappy at the prospect of retaining the contraband, he requested permission to destroy it himself. The unusual request was reluctantly granted. Heifets poured the brandy down a washbowl.

In Australia Heifets was forced to adhere to the custom of opening every program with "God Save the King" and, having played it a couple of dozen times he was about to render it at his first concert in Honolulu when he luckily glanced over his shoulder and saw that his accompanist was preparing to play the Vitalli Chaconne. So Heifets played that. Melba was in Sydney when he was there and she presented him with a laurel wreath at his opening concert and later, hearing his violin in the apartment next to hers, sent him in a bowl of red apples.

In Melbourne he alarmed his entourage by twisting a finger painfully in getting out of a car. It bothered him for two weeks and once, I am told, he made as if to quit in the middle of a Paganini selection, but stuck it out. In his hotel lobby in Perth he found one day a large group of people, each with a genuine Guarnerius or Stradivarius which Mr. Heifets was requested to examine. He had to tell the proud owner of each violin that it was not genuine. During his tour, which ranged from San Francisco to Rangoon, his chief diversion was the movies, and in Sydney he bought a movie camera. He didn't take any pictures, however, except a few snaps of Fiji Islanders for which he had to pay the natives. They also sold him a dozen bananas for fifty cents, right off the tree. He didn't play for them or for the white folks on the island.

With his companions the violinist drank water out of canvas bags swinging from the platforms of trains in the interior of Australia and took a bath in Rangoon by means of a sawed-off barrel and a dipper. An associate reports that this city will find his playing has become "freerer and warmer."

WIT AND WISDOM

A division of opinion often multiplies the trouble.

The pianist who plays by note has to face the music.

Poets who write promissory notes are never forgotten.

Occasionally a man rises from nothing to something worse.

More married women are disappointed in love than spinsters.

Many a fellow who spent a week at the beach is now on the rocks.

It's no use seeking happiness unless you are happy in the seeking.

We are told that man is made of dust, and yet dust always settles.

People rarely trouble themselves about anything that doesn't trouble them.

A doctor may speak only one language, and yet be familiar with many tongues.

An unwelcome guest is one of the best things going.

Many mothers know that it's never too late to mend.

The Trees' Winter Coats

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

"DO the trees get all frozen up in the winter? Do they get as cold as we?" worries John. So I explain to him, "Yes, I suppose they do get cold, but you see it doesn't hurt them because the sap, which is the tree's blood, all runs down into the roots where the earth keeps it from freezing while the trunk and limbs are protected by a coat of bark. In that way the tree sleeps till the sunshine of the spring coaxes the sap back up into the upper part of the tree and wakes it up."

WHEN the autumn comes each forest tree
Takes off its nice green summer gown
And looks bare
In the cold winds there
While its leaves lie withered, dry and brown.

But the forest tree is never cold
For a coat of bark is its winter wrap.
All buttoned neat
Clear from head to feet
While its roots lie snug in the Earth's warm lap.
